U. S. SEEKING POWERS TO REGULATE PRICES

Real Reason Why Government Acts on Sugar Trust Is Known

By GEO. R. HOLMES
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Federal action started in New York to stop gambling in sugar and bring prices down to a reasonable level was described today by administration officials as one of the most important pieces of litigation ever undertaken by the federal government.

Behind the government's blow at the sugar speculators is a more vital and far reaching aim than the mere recovery of a few cents a pound on sugar, important as that may be. What the government is really aiming at is the establishment of the principle that it has the right to step in and exercise partial regulatory control of the necessities of life whenever it considers the situation warrants.

If successful in the injunction proceedings against the sugar exchanges of New York to prohibit trading in futures, the third and perhaps conclusive step in the accomplishment of this aim will have been taken, according to officials.

Theory of Action

The theory behind the government's campaign of action is based upon a conception of modern day industrial life as embracing three absolute necessities—food, fuel and transportation.

Anything that interrupts public service and fair and adequate transportation constitutes a public menace, wherein the government must act, according to officials.

In the Wilson administration, Attorney-General Palmer used the injunction method against the coal operators and miners; last summer Attorney- General Daugherty used the injunction against the striking railway shopmen in the transportation crisis; and now the government has taken the third step by again bringing the injunction into play in the sugar situation, thus completing the cycle of action affecting food, fuel and transportation.

Gives Instructions

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Attorney-General Daugherty, now at Asheville, N. C., issued instructions today by long distance telephone to Assistant Attorney-General Seymour and other officials of the department of justice to concentrate immediately in the preparation of arguments to be presented to the court in New York on April 30, on which the government will seek a temporary injunction to prevent dealings in sugar futures on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange.

Called Politics

NEW YORK, April 20. — "A political gesture of no significance" was the estimate today of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, Inc., and the sugar clearing association of the government's suit to restrain the two organizations from further operations in sugar.

William M. Smith, the exchange's counsel, said today the exchange "would be ready to defend itself" from the government's motion for an injunction when the matter comes up for hearing April 30.

Defining the government's suit as a mere complaint that the exchange "quoted figures of transactions in sugar and that these figures were telegraphed to all parts of the country and thereby affected the price of sugar," Smith declared that every exchange, "coffee, grain and stock, could be closed under the same argument."

"The fact that the attorney-general has begun a suit does not mean his request will be granted," Smith said. "It remains to be seen whether the judicial department of the government will do what the executive branch desires."

Two Die for Murder of Roadhouse Owner

BUTTE, Mont., April 20.—William Harris and Monte Harris—related only in crime—were hanged on the gallows in the county jail building here early today for the murder of Cyril Shilling, a road house proprietor, on Thanksgiving night, 1921.

The men went to their death calmly and both were pronounced dead shortly after 3 a. m.

Two other men—Earl McCoy and George Beach—are serving life terms for participation in the killing of Shilling. The four were on parole from the Montana state prison when the crime was committed.

City Council To Make Certain Of Electric Railway

CITY officials are going to make certain that an electric line, not a steam line, is operated on Glendale avenue, as agreed upon between property owners and railroad officials, following the raising of a bonus to secure the electrification of the system. This was made plain at the meeting of the City Council last night when the Los Angeles & Salt Lake railroad applied for permission to operate an electric or steam line. The "or steam" line caused the councilmen to pause.

"Nothing but an electric line goes on Glendale avenue," said Councilman C. E. Kimlin. And the others agreed with him.

Hartley Shaw, city attorney, looked up the law and declared that it seemed to be the proper way to draw up the application, even though steam is not supposed to be the motive power. However, the council decided to have the permit exclude all reference to steam; electricity is what the property owners raised the bonus for, it was declared.

Paving of Glendale avenue was also discussed by the City Council last night. The report of the mass meeting which indorsed the kind of paving desired was read and referred to the committee of the whole.

The council, it was stated, also wishes to canvass the district and learn from the property owners the class of paving desired.

BARONESS TELLS OF RUBLE'S FALL

Stamps on Foreign Letters Look Like Miniature Crazy Quilts

Here's bad news for anyone who has honest-to-goodness American money invested in German marks or Russia rubles. Baroness de Ropp, a Glendalian, of 520 South Brand Blvd., received last week from Germany a letter that in pre-war value of the crazy-uilt of stamps contained, would have represented a small fortune.

The letter had on it 1018 marks, the 1914 value of which, at the old-time exchange rate of Germany's palmy days, was 23 cents per mark, or a total of $234.14 for that letter. Evidently war is costly business to the loser's credit.

But that example of war's folly isn't a consequence to what the Russian ruble has suffered since 1914. Not long ago the Baroness received from Russia a letter whose postage cost at pre-war value would have taken a millionaire to send.

The letter had on it 1,600,000 rubles, which at the former exchange rate of Russia's days of glory, was 51½ cents per ruble, or a total of $824,000 for that letter.

Baroness de Ropp states that black coffee in Russia at the present time costs a million rubles a cup, without sugar or milk. From which it would appear that a 1923 vintage Russian millionaire would not be able to buy very much Glendale real estate.

CHICAGO, April 20.—Eleven men were injured in an explosion today which shook the big plant of Corn Products Refining Company at Argo, near here. It was believed to have been caused by dust. RICHARDSON FOES WAGE FIGHT ON BUDGET

Desperate Efforts Are Made To Turn Battle Tide Against Governor

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, April 20.—Wild scenes such as only the old timers in the California legislature can remember were enacted during the night when the Assembly got hung on a call of the House, Assemblyman Fred Hawes, of San Francisco, being "Lost."

As was the case last night, efforts to amend the budget, which have succeeded in two instances, were tried in connection with the Santa Barbara State Normal school. Votes switched around until midnight flew past, the clock was stopped and free lunch served.

From all appearances the assembly is irretrieveably lost in a legislature jam over Richardson's recommendations with a vote or two being traded to turn the tide in favor of the old McCabe machine. However, nothing that may be done will be able to feaze the Governor, it is said.

Noticeable among those in the lobby, who are siding with the old regime, it would appear, are supervisor Henry W. Wright, who represents Glendale, by the way, and was appointed to the county board by Stephens, and also Attorney Frank Daugherty.

Declare Truce

An armistice was declared at 2 a. m. this morning in the Assembly Budget Appropriation fight when administration floor leader Henry Carter, San Pedro Assemblyman, moved that the call of the House be expunged from the records and the controversy continued to Monday morning at 11 o'clock. The Assembly then adjourned until 12 o'clock noon today, it being evident that Richardson lacks one or two votes in the House to carry out his program.

A thrill was added to the proceedings at 1 o'clock this morning when it was announced that the apartment house in which Assemblyman Willard E. Badham resides was destroyed by fire. He is a Los Angeles Assemblyman.

His wife and small daughter, Irma, escaped from the building in their night clothes. The fire originated from the heater in the bath room of their apartment.

Weller Bills Pass

Assemblyman Weller early today saw the Assembly pass the amendments to the Public Utilities Act giving water departments additional power. This measure was suggested by W. H. Reeves, City Manager of Glendale.

Weller also got his Sheppard-Towner Bill through the Senate late yesterday and it is now before the Governor for signature This means that the Federal government will give the state $16,000 for maternity education while the Child Hygiene Division of the State Board of Health will expend $11,000 additional. Club women of California requested the measure.

GERMANS, IN RIOT, SEIZE CITY; FIVE KILLED

Unemployed Workers Make Night of Terror; Scores Wounded, Is Report

BERLIN, April 20.—Eight were reported dead today and more than thirty wounded in "red" riots at Mulheim. The French troops made no effort to interfere when communists seized the principal street of the city and attacked the police.

AMSTERDAM, April 20.—Mulheim, the German city seized by a mob of 2000 unemployed workers, passed through a night of terror, with outbreaks of shooting in the streets, according to word received here.

The total casualties were put at five dead, two fatally hurt and fifty wounded. Communists occupied the center of the town.

Rioters looted gunshops and opened fire upon the city hall, where several hundred police were besieged.

Leaders of the communists threaten to run up the red flag over the city hall if it is taken.

A state of siege exists at Mulheim.

Large numbers of German strikers flocked into the city during the night and joined the "rebels."

Destruction to property at Mulheim was tremendous.

Barricades were built in the streets and the houses were riddled with bullets.

Raid Food Stores

The security police (German) who took refuge in the city hall returned the fire of the attackers.

Other policemen attempted to restore order, but the odds were against them in numbers.

The communists are reported to have raided numerous food stores and seized motor cars.

The trouble has spread beyond Mulheim, but the German police are cooperating with the French in an effort to restore order.

Many rioters were arrested. As the ringleaders were taken at Mulheim the rank and file began to retire. Latest advices from Essen indicate that the authorities are getting the situation in hand.

STUDENTS STAGE ANNUAL CONTEST

Oratorical Contest Develops Keen Rivalry Among Various Classes

Glendale Union high school this morning in the Glendale theatre, which was donated to the student body for the occasion by W. A. Howe, held its annual oratorical contest.

The event, which has been known by the students as "The Oratorical" ever since it was introduced by Harry S. Howe, in 1910, who was then vice principal, is one of the principal items on the high school calendar. It is one for which plans are made weeks and months in advance, and to which they look forward with both interest and anticipation.

Class rivalry is keener at this contest than at any other during the term. Each class puts forward its best orator, and in addition classes vie with each other in songs and yells. Until this year each class has presented a tableau for the occasion. In place of these this morning each class marched to the theater in a parade which was worthy of note.

Miss Betty Higgins, secretary of debating, had charge of this year's "Oratorical." She was complimented upon its success.

Subjects of Orations

Class orators and their subjects were as follows: Senior, Fred Peck, "Pan-Americanism, Its Obstacle"; junior, Miss Isabel Tousey, "Making the Promised Land the Land of Promise"; sophomore, Miss Elsie Whitney, "America, the Life Line"; freshman, George Karcher, "The World's Greatest Need."

Over the contest presided Paul Hutchinson, winner of last year's "oratorical."

Orations are judged half upon the merits of the composition and half upon delivery.

Judges of the oratorical contest were Dr. B. F. Stelter, professor of English at Occidental College; J. R. Mcarthur, professor of modern languages at the California Institute of Technology, and W. T. Newton, instructor of debating at Manual Arts high school. Miss Gladys Corry, instructor of oral English, coached the orations.

Excitement prevailed in the center of Glendale this morning along the line of march from the high school to the theatre.

Burton today announced that there are on file in his office complaints from thirty victims, totaling an estimated loss to them of $250,000.

Rowell was arested Wednesday after months of search, when it was learned, officers said, that he had gained $200,000 through the sale of stocks in phantom oil lands in Utah and Colorado. In lieu of $61,000 bond, Rowell was still in the county jail today.

HEALTH-AGAIN TALKS
By Dr. Otey

If you have built "CASTLES IN THE AIR," all well and good; now put the foundations under them. That foundation is Health. Let Osteopathy make you 100 per cent fit.

"ARE ALL OSTEOPATHIC CURES RAPID?"

Because most people take no notice of Osteopathy till some startling, seemingly miraculous cure is performed right under their eyes, they jump at the conclusion that all cures are instantaneous. They go forthwith to the nearest Osteopath and demand to be cured immediately.

One of the chief functions of Osteopathy is to correct structures so that the vital fluids and forces of the body, blood, lymph and nerve currents, may be unimpeded in their free flow to and from every part of the body. To do this, we must get every muscle relaxed, every ligament pliable, every joint freely movable and every bone and other structure in its proper place.

The best that any physician can do is to remove the conditions that interfere with nature's work and establish a normal flow of the vital fluids and forces of the human body.

Naturally there will follow a condition of health as great as the remaining structure is capable of maintaining.

So many people say, "We do not see how you can do this." The same people do not see how the sun can shine, how the flowers bloom, or how the imponderable electric current can drive the ponderous machinery of the factory.

You are invited to come in and let us explain how osteopathy would be expected to reach your case.

Mrs. Toll Leaves

Mrs. Charles H. Toll left this morning for Louisville, Ky., where she will attend the convention of the National Congress of Mothers. While there, she will speak at a Round Table conference on Home Education, telling, by request, the way in which the Reading Circle, which she formed in Glendale seven years ago, was established, under what principles it has been guided, and what amplifications in the methods have been made.

This Circle has stood pre-eminently as the most successful of its kind in the United States, and scores of letters asking for information have been received both at Washington and in Glendale, sent by persons desirous of forming similar circles in their own localities.

For some time it has been the custom of the Bureau of Education, under management of John J. Tigert, the United States commissioner of education, to broadcast information of what that department is doing, sending out from the department of the interior notice of the most progressive features of the educational world. Recently a time was devoted to Home Education, and in the message transmitted was this statement: "Perhaps you will organize a circle and discuss the books we recommend. Many circles have been formed in the United States. A very successful circle of over 150 women is organized in Glendale, Cal. The women of this circle meet once a week, in the middle of the day, when the older children are at school. The United States Bureau of Education will send a circular descriptive of this circle to anyone interested in organizing a similar reading circle. The bureau offers this opportunity to fathers and mothers so that they may educate themselves for their vocation of parenthood."

Following the Louisville convention, Mrs. Toll will go to Atlanta, Ga., there to attend the conference of the General Federation of Women's clubs. She will probably return about the middle of May.

Mrs. Toll will assume the office of president of the Los Angeles District of Women's clubs on July first, but will be busy with preparations for organization work from the time of her return until she assumes the actual work of the office.

GLENDALE K. OF C. DIRECT CARNIVAL

Local Council Wins Praise For Managing Program For Welfare Fund

The Knights of Columbus Carnival of Nations that is being held at 612 South Flower street, Los Angeles, was the lure that took many Glendalians down to that city last night, when the members of the Glendale council took complete charge of the program and handled the evening's events in a manner that assured the pronounced success of the affair and that won the unstinted enthusiasm of the throngs that were present. It was admitted on all hands that Glendale had put more life into the carnival than any other organization was likely to do and that the local council had hung up a mark for every other council in the district to shoot at.

A check of the receipts was expected to show that the opening night's record of $1000 for the Knights of Columbus Welfare Fund had been far surpassed.

Tonight has been designated Movie Hour at the carnival, and Jackie Coogan is to wield the scepter of authority over tonight's revels.

The carnival will close tomorrow night.

BIG DEMAND FOR ROSSMOYNE LOTS

Work of Improving Tract Is Going Ahead Rapidly At Subdivision

Improvements on Rossmoyne, "The Happyland," the new tract that the Haddock-Nibley Company is placing on the market, and that are to cost more than $1,000,000 before the work is completed, are well under way, according to an announcement made by Lon J. Haddock, president of the firm, and the demand for the property included in the tract has far surpassed even the most sanguine expectations of the subdividers, predicting an early disposal of the entire tract to the keen investors and eager homeseekers who are devoting so much and such close attention to Glendale and its environs.

Rossmoyne includes more than 700 acres of the finest land in this section, beautified by huge oak trees, thousands of bearing orange trees and other varieties, undulating landscape varying from the level garden land to the winding canyon and the rugged mountainside, showing Southern California at its best. The property originally belonged to the Judge Erskine Ross estate and was one of the historic ranches of this region, a place where hospitality and culture found a perfect setting among the beauties of nature that stand unrivaled.

The list of the improvements that are to be installed all over the property include gas, water, curbing cement walks, electric street standards, while the location of the tract, only a few blocks from the business heart of the city, and with schools and churches within easy reach, and with street cars traversing the property through its entire length, forms an unanswerable argument in favor of investment, either for home building or for investment, in Rossmoyne lots.

Northward Trend

Real estate experts insist that the natural trend of Glendale's development lies northward up along the valleys through which are the easy grades that lead to the neighboring towns, or up to the foothills where the elevation and the beauties of nature combine to render most desirable the sites that are being laid out for those who seek a place where they may build their homes amid surroundings that appeal to the eye and that afford that seclusion and reserve that are so much to be desired.

Rossmoyne, according to Mr. Haddock, has every feature that commends it to the buyer of real estate here. It lies in the path of development for those who seek to make a profit on their investment, or it gives the homeseeker a chance to erect his residence in the midst of a bower of natural beauty that stands without a rival anywhere in the Southland.

Hi Y Boys to Help Destitute Russians

"That science, literature and the arts may not perish in Russia," is the slogan motivating the efforts of Hi-Y boys all over America, in their campaign of old clothes collection, to relieve the destitute professors and students of that struggling country.

The general movement is being conducted under the direction of E. C. Colton, senior secretary for religious work, the international committee, Y. M. C. A.

Anyone in Glendale who wishes to cooperate in this great movement to keep the light of learning alive in dark Russia, should get some old clothes together and communicate with Secretary Rex C. Kelley, of the Glendale Y. M. C. A., or with Paul Edmonds, Hi-Y leader.

Woman's Fine and Jail Sentence Suspended

Mrs. Hazel F. Sloan of Tujunga was sentenced yesterday by Justice Harry W. Chase to pay a fine of $25 and to serve ten days in jail on a charge of disturbing the peace, the complaint having been filed by Mrs. Lillian Feegitz of Tujunga. The trouble developed out of a neighborhood squabble that was precipitated largely over the five children of the defendant and a large number of Tujunga residents were in the courtroom to hear the trial. Mrs. Sloan was defended by Attorney Leslie R. Tarr, who was assigned to the case by Judge Chase.

In view of the woman's circumstances Judge Chase suspended the fine and jail sentence during her good behavior.

Federal Coal Control Called 'Paternalism'

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 20.—It would be "paternalism in its worst form," if the federal government attempted to fix prices and control distribution of coal, asserted Attorney J. V. Norman, of Louisville, Ky., addressing the Columbus Chamber of Commerce forum.

The public would be deprived of the benefit of unrestricted competition in the event that the National Coal Commission determined upon means of limiting the capacity of coal mines and the number of miners employed, Attorney Norman said.

He asserted that collective bargaining between laborers and employers is proper within limited areas, but "wrong when carried out along national lines."

Woman Restores Pie As 'Essential Food'

PITTSBURG, April 20—If there remained any doubt as to the beneficent influences of woman in politics that doubt may be expected to vanish with the announcement made here of the latest achievement resulting from feminine control of the Pittsburg Department of Charities. The inmates of Mayview, the home maintained by the charities department are to have pie. It remained for Mrs. Enoch Raup, the new director of the department of charities, to inject a real thrill into life at Mayview by classifying pie as a "highly essential food."

BREAK DEADLOCK ON SCHOOL VOTE

Five Hour Clash Halted as Assembly Decides to Expunge Votes

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 20 An agreement to expunge votes already taken on an amendment to the budget offered by Asemblyman T. M. Wright of San Jose, providing increased funds for the San Jose Teachers' college, and take the matter up again Monday at 2 o'clock this morning broke a five-hour deadlock which developed in the assembly and permitted adjournment.

A tie vote of 38 to 38 developed on the amendment and a call of the house followed. Efforts to lift the call failed, and from 9 o'clock last night until 2 this morning the assembly was in a deadlock. It was by far the bitterest clash so far over the budget.

Earlier the assembly had adopted, by a vote of 45 to 34, amendments increasing appropriations over budget figures for the San Francisco Teachers' college.

TRACE NEW CLEW IN MANN MURDER

Texas Authorities Asked to Hold Suspect for San Diego Police

MIAMI, Tex., April 20.—Sheriff James C. Byers of San Diego, Cal. has telegraphed local authorities to hold a man arrested here after he had made statements which would indicate knowledge of how Fritzie Mann, beautiful Oriental dancer, came to her death near Torrey Pines, a short distance from San Diego, on January 14 last.

Dr. Louis L. Jacobs, young army doctor, of Camp Kearny, Cal., was recently tried for murder in connection with the girl's death, but the jury disagreed.

It is understood an officer will be sent here from California to question the man now under arrest. The name of the man could not be learned.

STUDENTS STAGE ANNUAL CONTEST

and blue coats, represented Americans. In the line of march they carried twenty flags, each one representing a different nation of Central and South America. Seniors were led by George Jansen and Miss Frances Wyman, each bearing American flags. They were followed by Stillman Chase, dressed as Uncle Sam. He was closely followed by George Jewitt in a full dress suit with a painted moustache of black grease paint and a high silk hat. He represented a Spanish statesman. Albert Bryand, in a white uniform, typified a Spanish soldier, and Ivan Dow, in a khaki uniform, represented an American soldier.

Juniors emphasized their orator's speech upon immigration by their being dressed as immigrants who had just passed through Ellis Island. They were led by Ronald West in a suit of hand-medowns, and Miss Betty Crosson in a vivid Bohemian costume.

Sophomores laid stress upon the national colors. Boys wore blue trousers and white shirts with red sashes, while girls wore white skirts and middies and blue sashes. They were led by Lee Shannon, president of the A10 class, and Charles Lundie, president of the B10 class.

Suffering Armenians

Freshmen personified America's interest in suffering Europe. They were led by a squad of boy scouts pulling a small cart loaded with packages of food, which seemed to be mostly boxes of fancy crackers, which were intended for the relief of the near-east. A group of them were dressed as Armenians—a large placard said so.

Judges of the parade were Henry E. Cavanah of 230 North Orange street, Mrs. Nanno Woods of 122 Milford street and Mrs. Pearl Kellar Brattain of 109 North Brand boulevard. They admitted that their job was a difficult one.

School and class yells made the interior of the theatre echo and re-echo with the enthusiasm of the students. The general yell leader was Danny Berman, who was attired in white trousers and white jersey. His antics were regarded as quite commendable. Senior leaders were Boyd Taylor and "Bub" Irvin Carver. Juniors were led by Frank Richardson and Fredrica Marshall. Sophomores were directed by Weldon Hansen, and freshmen were led by Dewey McCourt.

Expect Young People At Jerry Jeter Meet

A large number of young people are expected to attend the services tonight in the tabernacle on the northwest corner of Cedar street and Broadway of the Broadway Methodist church to see Evangelist Jerry Jeter cartoon the life story of himself and his old schoolmate, Jim.

A delegation from the Trinity Methodist Church, South, in Los Angeles, which is Rev. "Bob" Shuler's congregation, attended the revival meeting last night. The subject of Jerry Jeter's address was "What Do I Care?"

Mrs. Jerry Jeter tonight will give an illustrated lesson with lighted candles.

Community Players Give Program Of Merriment; To Be Offered Again Tonight

A REVEL of merriment was offered nearly 1000 Glendalians last night at the Tuesday Afternoon Club auditorium, by a clever cast of forty Community Players, under the capable direction of Mrs. Nanno Woods, when their three-act melange of joy and frolic, "The Fun Revue," was staged for the benefit of the American Legion building fund.

If some of the little details were not worked out quite as well as they will be tonight, when the performance is given again, for its second and final time, they were forgotten in the whirl of pleasure afforded the audience by the large assemblage of local entertainers. And that many appreciative friends and admirers were in the auditorium was attested by the numerous lovely bouquets and baskets of flowers tendered individual players at the close of their numbers.

It is difficult to select a single most scintillant star from amid the brilliant galaxy that last night flared in the theatrical heavens of Glendale. Kathleen Woods, who danced the charming fantastic number "Raggedy Andy" and the lovely "Spanish Dance," and who also played the part of the bride, in addition to that piece of delicious foolishment, the Wild Woman, was certainly an outstanding star.

Stars Brightly Shine

And Dorothy Morton, who distinguished the first act with her droll gingham dance, in the role of Luella, and who in the second act led the "Rainbow Dance," was assuredly a star, too.

Other outstanding numbers on the eventful program were E. A. McCoubrey, in his "Fish—Fish—Fish;" Harry A. James, in his invariably clever "Baseball Monologue;" the Village Gossips, Stephen Huntington and Mesdames L. T. Bradley, A. M. Howe, W. E. Woodbury, Mary C. Beauchamp, Edith Holway; and Soldier Caruso, in his "O, Solo Mio" and "Sunrise and You."

The curtain opened promptly at the advertised hour of 8:15 o'clock, with a chorus of dancing girls, and from then on until 10:45, with the exception of two brief intermissions between acts, there was not a dull moment.

Following the conclusion of the Second Act, the first and fourth prizes of the Parody contest were awarded by Mrs. Mattison B. Jones. The first prize of a beautiful Pyrex-glass baking set, donated by the Wilson-Bell Hardware company, was won by Mrs. Edith Boynton Holway; and the fourth prize, a lovely incense-burner, donated by the Whitaker pharmacy, was won by Mrs. H. A. Winter. The second and third prizes will be awarded at tonight's performance by Mayor Spencer Robinson.

RUSSIA REVIVES NATION'S SPIRIT

Hopeful Sign Seen in Apparent Recognition That Nation Favors Unity

By HARRY L. ROGERS
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 20.—The old nationalistic spirit of the Russian people, almost crushed under five years of chaos, is reviving, in the opinion of Administration officials here. The latest decision of the Moscow authorities to amalgamate the Russian Soviet Republic with those of the Ukraine, and Trans-Caucasia, together with the union already accomplished with the Far Eastern Republic, are remarkable indications of the reviving feeling of unity, it is stated, which give the whole Russian situation a more hopeful appearance.

Details of the plan of unification just received here indicate the commissariats for foreign affairs, foreign trade, war, transport, and posts in the various republics are being merged into the existing Russian Council of People's Commissaries, which will be known as the Federal Council while those for justice, home affairs, "popular enlightenment" and agriculture will remain independent.

Four States Planned

The plan calls for four federal states; Soviet Russia, Ukraine, White Russia and the Trans-Caucasian Republic, which includes Georgia, Azerbaijan and Armenia. The Far-Eastern Republic of Siberia, though voluntarily incorporated into Soviet Russia, will remain autonomous, with Moscow directing its foreign policy.

This desire for amalgamation reflects to a certain extent, it is believed here, the conviction of a good portion of the Russian people that Russia must be united politically and economically if she is to regain her old standing among the nations. In so far as this is true it presents one of the most hopeful signs observed since the fall of the Kerensky government.

Fear Soviet Influence

The danger lies, however, in the fact that it is being consummated under the old Soviet regime at Moscow, which, officials here believe, has been mainly responsible for years of disorder and dissolution.

Meanwhile officials continue to scan reports from Russia eagerly in the hope of discovering concrete evidences of that change of heart which Secretary of State Hughes has declared must occur before the American government can have any official dealings with Moscow. The latest and most convincing of these reports is that just received which tells of the approaching consummation of arrangements between Soviet Russia and the White Star Steamship line for establishment of regular services between Russia and other countries. Much significance is attached to the project.

The recent agreement between Russia and France for renewal, at least in part, of commercial relations by the establishment of Russian governmental trading branches in Paris is accepted by American officials with less optimism. While the Ruhr situation remains as it is, France has need of placating Russia in every possible way, and there is reason to believe the sudden unbending of the Paris government may be prompted by a policy of expediency.

Nevada Zephyr Blows Hay Wagon Over Fence

MINDEN, Nevada, April 20.—Picking up a wagon load of hay and lifting it over a six-foot fence was the prank of a "Washoe zephyr" which swept Carson Valley reecntly.

Ed Millar, of Millar's diary, left the wagon standing in the feed lot in the evening. In the morning he found the hay scattered over the adjacent corral. So was the wagon. The fence was not damaged.

New England Terror Sent to Reformatory

ATTLEBORO, Mass., April 19.—Ernest Duffey, 16, of North Attleboro, claims to be the "toughest guy in New England." He was so tough he pushed his fist through three panes of glass in an office where girls are employed, an act which, he said, he committed to substantiate the claim.

Duffey was sentenced to the Industrial School for Boys, at Shirley, by Judge Charles C. Hagerty, in Juvenile Court.

WILL SELL LOTS IN SECOND UNIT

Suburban Heights Tract Is Offered by Owners at Low Rates

Large scenic homesites in Glendale's choicest residential district are to be sold on Saturday next, at prices and terms that will come as a distinct surprise. According to plans which have been carefully laid out by the Suburban Realty company, owners and subdividers of Suburban Heights, Unit No. 2, containing fifty-three of the choicest scenic homesites in Glendale will take place at their tract office, Tenth street at Western avenue, at 2 o'clock, tomorrow. These fifty-three lots will be sold to the first arrivals on a small cash payment basis and no further payments for two years.

"Such an extraordinary liberal selling plan places these homesites within easy reach of everyone," said Alfred R. Johnson, sales manager of the Suburban Realty company. "Investors, speculators and homebuilders are offered one of the greatest opportunities of their lives to secure these desirable lots and hold them at practically no cost to themselves for a period of two years. At the end of that time they will undoubtedly be in line for a very large resale profit; in fact, it is generally conceded by this city's bankers, business men and realtors that homesites in this exclusive west side district will increase double and treble in value in less than two years' time. This allows a very exceptitonal opportunity for resales to be made either on the unimproved lot or a still more profitable deal to be turned by those who build now or in the near future."

Appreciate Values

"Our last week's sale of forty-two homesites in Unit No. 1 conclusively proved that the buying public appreciated the unusual values and future profit-making possibilities of Suburban Heights, as we were completely sold out by 4 o'clock Sunday, and were compelled to turn away a number of disappointed buyers. During the week, however, we were able to secure a few lots from a large buyer. These we again placed back on the market at the same original low terms, in order to give everyone an equal opportunity to make their purchases."

"We have fifty-three of the choicest homesites in Suburban Heights Unit No. 2, and, considering the enviable location, the choice mountain scenery, the elevation and the natural charm that abound in this beautiful tract of land, we feel sure that last week's success will be repeated this week-end.

"Unit No. 2 is in a very strategical location, bounded by Tenth street and Western avenue, which will, when completely cut through to Los Angeles and the harbor, give an increased value to this property, that is hard to estimate. The land is heavily wooded and covered with valuable grape vines. Improvements of the very highest class are being installed and a number of streets are already completed. These consist of sidewalks and curbs, water and gas, electricity, shade trees, paved streets all to be installed at no cost to buyers. With these improvements and the property surveyed, recorded, subdivided and staked out we are still selling Suburban Heights homesites at less than surrounding unimproved lots are offered at in acreage parcels.

Future Assured

"The future of Suburban Heights as a high class residential community is an assured fact," concluded Mr. Johnson. "We have everything that could be desired from the standpoint of location, elevation, mountains, scenery, street cars and motor bus transportation, close proximity to city schools and branch public library, shopping district and theatres, yet far enough away to be out of the noise and bustle. Suburban Heights is th ideal close-in suburban home place—a community that will undoubtedly contain some of the most valuable and high priced homesites in the very near future. We purchased this property at the very lowest market value and are passing the low prices on to our buyers at Saturday's sales, and the fact that we have already received numerous inquiries and requests for reservations, which have been refused, leads us to believe that we will have a record-breaking sale this week-end."

Tut Bob Is Latest Hair Dressing Fad

LIMA, Ohio, April 20. — The Tut-Ankh-Amen bob, latest decree of Dame Fashion in hair-dressing styles, has made its appearance here.

Bid good-bye to the permanent wave bob, say the hairdresers.

The Tut-Ankh-Amen bob is shorter than the regulation cut, the hair reaching a point about half-way down the ear. The hair is parted in the middle, flaring up and flowing down over the ears. Ends of the hair are not fluffy, but are held together tighly to give the effect of heaviness.

The new bob was originated, and designed, at a convention held recently in New York.

"I do not expect the style to prove popular save with the beautiful women," said Miss Corinne Underwood, proprietor of a local beauty shop. "The hair must be cut very short, and it is a style suited only to faddists." Miss Underwood said she has had many calls for the new style ond headdress.

TELLS OF TRIALS ON MOTOR TRIP

Storm in Texas Results in Sea of Mud Rising to Battle Machine

The following is part of a letter written by Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert-Clark Scofield, to their friends, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Malarkey, of 347 North Jackson street, describing a motor trip from Glendale to Westfield, New York, via New Orleans, La., leaving Glendale February 14.

"All went well with us until we arrived at Sonora, Texas, where we met a storm which made the old Spanish trail a bottomless road of gumbo. We arrived there on Thursday afternoon, and it was Sunday afternoon before we got away, but the gumbo streak continued for sixty-five miles that took us two days to cover, pulling in 'low' and 'second' all the way.

"I drove the car while Clark went ahead, with his hip boots on, picking out the shallowest ruts he could find. Of course there were no bridges over the streams and some were rather high. Once we found ourselves in mid-stream with our motor dead, but after waiting for it to dry out we proceeded.

"At San Antonio we learned that our only chance of getting to Houston was by way of Austin, as the Spanish trail to Gonzales was impassable. So we finally got out of Texas with nothing worse than two broken front springs and one slough that we had to be pulled through, with mud up to our headlights, and no exaggeration.

"The Louisiana roads proved fine, and we made the 300-mile run from Lake Charles to New Orleans in twelve hours. We had intended to go on to Florida, but on the other side of New Orleans ran into $20 in ferry charges in one day and were told it would be nothing but marshes and swamps all the way, so we changed our plans and went north from Gulf Port, Miss. to Meridian, then east to Montgomery, Ala., Atlanta, Ga., and northward through the Carolinas to Richmond, Washington, Philadelphia, Trenton, Newark, and continued north into New York state, keeping along the west shore of the Hudson river to Kingston.

See First Snow

"We saw our first snow thirty miles south of Washington, and then no more till we reached Philadelphia, but by the time we got to Kingston, we were having a hard time to keep going. And at Catsackie, twenty miles south of Albany, we struck snow on the concrete highway five feet deep, with no possible passage, so had to put the faithful old 'boat' in a box-car and take the train the rest of the way—arriving home at Westfield, March 16, or just a month from when we left California, a distance by the speedometer of 4700 miles."

Visits Brother Here While on Honeymoon

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hemphill arrived here Tuesday from Vancouver, B. C. to spend some time visiting the former's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hemphill, 406 East Elk street. The visitors are honeymooning at present, having been married on April 14, and they have already fallen in love with Glendale as a place in which to establish their home and to engage in business.

Ralph Hemphill is now engaged in conducting an automobile school in Vancouver, and he is seriously considering disposing of his interests in Canada and coming here to settle permanently.

Mex. Solons Move to Expel U. S. Engineer

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico, April 20. — Cheers from the jammed spectators' gallery reverberated through the chamber of deputies here yesterday with the unanimous passage of a resolution demanding that President Obregon expel John R. Enlow, American Smelter and Mining superintendent. His deportation was requested by 500 miners parading with red and black flags.

So great is the excitement here that state authorities are considering the recall to Chihuahua of Governor Ignacio Enriques, who is in Mexico City on a leave of absence.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

"Don't stay gray; try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.—Advertisement.

TUJUNGA

MUSIC FEATURES MEETING OF P.-T. A.

Blind Musician Plays Song Written in Honor of Organization

The Tujunga Parent-Teacher Association held the regular monthly meeting in the school house Wednesday afternoon, April 18. A large delegation of Sunland ladies, numbering more than fifty, were present to enjoy the excellnt program and refreshmnts.

Pupils of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades entertained with three songs, the first being the "Anvil Chorus." This was followed by "Echoes." Their last number was "California." They also gave a joint reading from one of Victor Hugo's plays. This interpretation was in the form of a reading lesson and was very well given reflecting the excellence and painstaking care of their teachers.

Allan Spurr, blind musician of remarkable ability, played three piano solos. Mr. Spurr has become so interested in and so impressed by the good work of the Parent-Teachers Associations that he has composed and dedicated to them a song which he has named for the associations. This was his first solo and it was so well received that the members voted to buy twenty-five copies. His other two offerings were "March Triumphant" and "Love's Content."

Following the program an open forum was held for general discussion and refreshments were served.

The Parent-Teachers Associations will hold a convention in Los Angeles on Thursday and Friday, April 26 and 27, at the Walker Building on Grand Avenue. A delegation of twelve ladies will attend from Tujunga.

To Install Lights

Steps are being taken to secure lights for the new Hillhaven district. L. S. Benjamin has started the movement and hopes to have this section of Tujunga, in which he lives, added to the regular lighting system now in force, as well as the cross on Mt. McGroarty.

The roads in this tract are in fine condition and not excelled by any in Tujunga. A lighting system on the streets and on the road leading from the Highway would greatly benefit the ever increasing number of residents there. Several new homes are under construction all the time.

A. B. Johnson, state senator from this district is endeavoring to secure funds for fire protection of timber lands in this district and has introduced a bill in the legislature to this effect.

An appreciation dinner and dance was given at Bolton hall on a recent evening for the public spirited ladies and gentlemen who gave their time and talents in successfully promoting the last Legion vaudeville show. A rabbit dinner was served by Commander and Mrs. Charles W. Kellar, which was followed by dancing to music played by Jim Smith, the composer of "My Radio Girl." The guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Scribner, Mr. and Mrs Charles Kimpel, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Wiggins, Mr. and Mrs. T. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Aiken, Alfred Johnson and the Misses Catherine Crews, Winifred Allardice, Velma Henry, Doris May Henry, Maude Therese Morgan, Marie Chatfield, Lauretta Wiggins, Mildred Elsey and Elizabeth D. Hartranft.

Tujunga's Christian Endeavor Society combined a business meeting and banquet last Friday in the basement of the Community church.

The chief topic of discussion was the formation of an orchestra of members, to meet and practice once a week on Thursdays. Delegates were appointed at this meeting to attend the convention starting April 20 at Pomona.

Birthday Surprise

Mr. Wm. B. Anderson of Fairview Avenue was pleasantly surprised recently when a number of friends dropped in to celebrate his birthday anniversary. Many of the guests contributed to the entertainment of the others with speeches and stunts.

Mrs. Anderson, assisted by Mrs. Nettie Mathies Horne, Miss Kathlyn Layton and Miss Peggie Miller, served refreshments to the following: George Aiken, M. E. Hill, Boston Tarpley, F. C. Miller, Reginald Horne, Robert Gordon, C. C. Hamilton, O. W. Hamilton, R. K. Hamilton, J. A. Caldwell, M. F. Gilmer, Phil Rheim and H. C. Allen.

The activities of the Southern California Edison electric company in Tujunga may be judged by the following list of installations just recently completed. Meters have been installed for the following, beside many applications that are being received daily: Jerome B. Hughes, Sunland; John F. Watson, 342 East Los Robles; Clarence E. Kryger, James Street Sunland; Frank K. Hessong, 458 East Michigan avenue; Leland A. Moore, Haines Canyon and El Centro; S. James Hannah, 329 Marshall street; Miss Ruth Dodge, 228 South Sunset; Fred L. Jordan, Michigan Avenue, Sunland; A. P. Siemans, 313 Francis Court; Miss Lucy A. Morse, 133 Greely; James Taylor, 137 North Michigan; John Brown, 419 North Kirshman Lane, Sunland; Gustave A. Hanson, 416 East street.

Mrs. Myra Bradwell, of Chicago, in 1869 applied for a license as an attorney-at-law and was refused by the superior court of Illinois, the supreme court of the United States affirming the decision; now there are many in the state, women being admitted to practice by statute.

AIRSHIP RUSHES FOOD TO ISLAND

Reports of Starving Men And Women May Be Hoax, Reports Say

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., April 20.—Despite information reaching here that the woman and nine men reported starving on South Fox island, isolated by northern Lake Michigan ice floes, have a six months' supply of food, Lieutenant Russell Meredith left Selfridge field today with provisions for the "starving" party.

Food Plane Lands.

NORTHPORT, Mich., April 20.—An airplane loaded with provisions, intended for the relief of nine men and a woman reported marooned and in a semi-starved condition on south Fox island, landed on the outskirts of Northport this morning. The plane was believed to be the one which left Chicago late yesterday.

May Be Hoax

NORTHPORT, Mich., April 20.—The reported plight of the nine men and one woman, said to be starving on South Fox island, in Lake Michigan, was regarded as a hoax today, following the denials and conflicting stories told by Edward Horn, one of the three men who reached Northport from the island Wednesday night. Horn and two companions, Carl Cooper and Ellis Sayres, reached here after they said they had struggled for sixty hours in ice floes, losing a skiff and completing their allegedly perilous journey on a cake of ice.

Soft Drink Places Must Be Registered

Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell today sounded a warning to 5000 persons operating soda fountains and soft drink stores and concessions, and to all others intending to engage in such business, that they must register with his office or incur a penalty of $1,000. Those that are registered for the period ending June 30, 1923, need not register again until in June, for the year ending June 30, 1924, but any person liable who is not now registered, must do so at once, in order to avoid penalties.

"Persons engaged in this line of business," said Goodcell, "must not only be registered, but must pay tax on all syrups they make and use in compounding carbonated soft drinks, and also pay tax on all "still" drinks, they make and sell. Failure to pay such tax incurs penalties of 25 per cent and 5 per cent, and also a specific penalty of $1,000.

"I don't want to make a record as a collector of penalties. I urge all taxpayers to write, phone or call at my office, where they will be shown every courtesy and given information which will enable them to pay their taxes without being subject to penalties."

Collector Goodcell's warning is directed especially to new concessionaires at the beaches.

Too Many Women Now In European Nations

PARIS, April 20.—There are women—and women, and a few too many of them, according to the latest statistics of an Italian who figures out a surplus of twenty-five millions of the feminie element. In Germany there are 1,026 women for 1,000 men; in Russia 1,490 against 1,000. America is rather well bananced, with 1,100 for 1,000 men. France and Belgium count 1,093 and 1,033 respectively for 1,000 men. Rumania is the only exception, with 985 men to 1,000 women.

Four Planes Start on Flight to East Coast

SAN DIEGO, April 20.—Four giant Martin bombing planes hopped off from North Island yesterday bound for Quantico, Va. They are manned by officers and men of the marine corps and are scheduled to make eleven stops en route.

LA CRESCENTA

MOVIE SHOW TO START NEXT WEEK

Street Improvement Plans Discussed at Meeting Of Association

La Crescenta is to have a picture show which will be held in the school auditorium every Friday, beginning Friday, April 27.

The opening bill is to be one of Hoot Gibson in "The Lone Hand" and a Century comedy featuring Lee Moran. Harry Peters of Briggs terrace and Audrey Currie of La Crescenta drug store will conduct the enterprise. Prices will be thirty cents for adults and fifteen cents for children, and good music is assured.

A special meeting of the La Crescenta Improvement association was called Thursday night, April 19, to discuss improving Pennsylvania and Montrose avenues.

Dean Culbertson, president, called the meeting to order, making a motion that the reading of the minutes for the previous meeting be omitted to save time.

Mr. Bissill reported on the work of the road committee, saying Los Angeles was the first road to be paved in the valley. The money to take care of the state highway being raised by Tujunga and La Crescenta. Next come Honolulu avenue and Ocean View. No small streets can be graded by the county unless people on such streets pay the full expense. The county will, however, grade and pave entranes of main streets.

Estimates given on this work were six hundred to one thousand dollars per mile on good roads, such work lasting for three years or more.

The special fund of $7500 for Pennsylvania avenue improvement is being used on this street and cannot be used for any other purpose. About $2000 will be available for other work this coming year from taxes. A resolution was passed approving the work on Pennsylvania avenue, and thanking the board of supervisors for taking care of this work at this time. It was also shown that the valley needed this extra road to lighten travel on Ocean View and Los Angeles roads.

Petitions for paving Montrose avenue from Ocean View to Pennsylvania must be in before July 1.

Mr. Swain of the Sparr Heights company explained the work the company was doing paving Ocean View on their holdings, the county to finish up from Honolulu to Montrose.

Firemen's Ball

President Culbertson announced the firemen's ball to be held at the schoolhouse, Saturday night, April 21. The receipts for the evening will be used to fully equip the fire truck, which must be done before the summer.

It was also announced that a musical program will be given Wdnesday, April 25, the proceeds of which will be given to the church fund.

The meeting closed with the secretary's report, $52 had been paid in during the evening for yearly dues.

Asphalt was laid in a San Francisco street in 1879.

BURBANK

BURBANK'S BOOST FUND IS GROWING

Publicity Committee Hears Nearly $10,000 Raised To Further City

At a luncheon of the Burbank Publicity fund committee held yesterday in the Good Fellows' club rooms, it was disclosed that nearly $10,000 has now been subscribed to the fund which will be used to advertise Burbank before the world. And more is still to come, it is promised.

This large sum raised in so short a time is a clear indication, members of the committee state, that the city realizes it must no longer "hide its light under a bushel" but must herald afar the advantages that are making it great, in order that more industries and homes may swell its payroll and its population.

The next problem will be how to spend the money to the best advantage. Numerous suggestions have been made. Some advise national advertising, others favor a broad-gauge pamphlet campaign, while still others believe that extensive advertising campaigns should be waged in local papers.

The consensus of opinions seems to be, however, that some effort should be made to reach beyond the boundaries of California for the new population, it being obvious that to advertise in other sections of the same state is simply to compete with other sections.

Exposition Plans

T. A. Carlton, manager of the Merchants' Exposition, announces that the tent this year will be 90 by 180 feet, which is larger than last year's, 90 by 140 foot canvas.

"And should this not be large enough," says Manager Carlton, "I will get an even bigger tent. We mean to make this 1923 exposition a big thing for Burbank.

"Several fine events are assured. A Fashion show will be held every day, giving merchants an opportunity to display their most attractive gowns and the women a chance to see just what the latest styles are. There will be a band, and several special singing and dancing numbers. And the merchants will give prizes, as heretofore."

A more immediate effort to stimulate Burbank is seen in the "Community Boost" play, to be given at the Thomas Edison school auditorium, April 26 and 27, under the auspices of the Order of the Mystic Smile.

This is the secret of the little P-E-P tags that have gone over the city like measles the last few days. "Pep" is said to be more than an entertainment. It is a tonic, its instigators report. Another title of the production is "Our Hometown" and the plot deals with the injecting of vitality into a community.

The play is said to have been produced in many California towns with marked success, and will be presented in Burbank under the direction of its author, in conjunction with the Co-operative Comedy Company.

Chamber Meets—Church Dines

The directors of the Burbank Chamber of Commerce, at their meeting last night, are reported to have discussed the matter of the advertising fund and methods of disbursing the same, while at the Presbyterian church, the men's club held a banquet, for the purpose of achieving a better organization.

Among other Burbank events yesterday was a social meeting of the Rebekah lodge in the Odd Fellows' hall, a meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club at the club rooms, and a banquet of the Men's Bible class, held in Highland park.

Wireless communication held with miners in underground workings of mines, will soon be a possibility, according to recent experiments in this country and England.

MONTROSE

BATTLE FLAG OF CHINA ON DISPLAY

Captain Charles Famel Is Proud of Colors Taken In September, 1900

One of the battle flags of the Chinese army was captured by Captain Charles Famel of Montrose and is now on display at 104 West California avenue, Montrose, in the window of the shoe repair shop.

The owner, who was then Sergeant Famel, captured the flag at the battle of Pata Chien, September 16, 1900, and it was presented to him later as a reward of his heroism. He was a member of Company I of the 14th United States infantry. John F. O'Neil of 324 Arden avenue was a member of Company H and was close behind when the flag was captured.

The flag, which is triangular in shape and made of heavy muslin, is about eight feet long and about five feet wide at the top. The center is black upon which have been patched five squares of white bearing Chinese characters. One of these bears the inscription, "Death to all Foreigners" while the other four bear the names of the regiment's officers. Two long streamers of white which hang at the side of the flag have inscribed upon them in Chinese, the engagements in which the regiment took part.

In the upper corner of the flag is some of the blood of the color-bearer who was killed when the flag was captured.

Capt. Famel, who was a major on recruiting duty at Washington during the world war, has now retired from active service. He is quite proud of this memento of his military career.

Real Salesmanship

Doggone, it's gotten so that salesmen from Los Angeles aren't safe in Glendale.

Anyhow, not in Sparr Heights.

Yesterday, two salesmen from the metropolis dropped in at the main office of the realty firm of Barnum and Walters Company. Both Mr. Walters and H. E. Barnum were busy but it did not take them long to decide that they were not interested.

One of the Los Angeles salesmen was Sidney F. Sargent. He was followey out to his car by A. E. Swain, realty salesman—and before he had left the tract had left behind him a deposit on a chunk out of the Heart of the Verdugos.

"I'd like to have that lot," he suggested, and Mr. Swain didn't make any objection at all but pulled out his fountain pen and showed him the dotted line.

According to Mr. Swain, the property in question will increase materially in value in a short time as soon as Ocean View avenue, upon which it is located, is paved.

Arson Is Charged in Jap Mission Blaze

SACRAMENTO, April 20.—Declaring that they have unearthed evidence showing that the fire which snuffed out the lives of ten children in the Japanese mission school here late Sunday night was of incendiary origin, F. H. Carlson and R. L. Dallas, members of the state arson board, announced that arrests are expected momentarily in connection with the tragedy.

Chief of Police Bernard McShane went into conference with the arson board members following an examination of evidence said to have been found in the ruins of the old mission. It was indicated that the fire was the climax of a feud between two Japanese factions.

Students to Stage Novel Boost Stunt

SACRAMENTO, April 20.—Handcuffed and walking back to back, David McMillan and Richard Barlow, students of the Davis Agricultural college, will set out from Davis today on a "hobble" hike to Berkeley via Sacramento, Lodi, Stockton and Antioch. They expect to arrive at the campanile Monday noon.

The "back to back" walking stunt will be staged to advertise the annual picnic of the Agricultural college to be held on April 28.

"Skipper" Lindley, 66 year old freshman at the college, and former naval officer, will accompany the hikers to San Francisco and feed them.

Giant Liner to Go on N. Y.-Cherbourg Run

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The steamship Leviathan, now rebuilding at Norfolk, Va., will be assigned to the United States lines to be operated between New York, Southampton and Cherbourg, the shipping board announced.

HELD FOR BIGAMY

SEATTLE, April 20.—Robert Charles Durant, alias Robert Charles Nelson, who has been sought throughout the country since January 1 on a bigamy charge, has been arrested in Salt Lake, according to advices received by the sheriff's office.

Miss Christine McDonald of Seattle claims that when she wedded Durant he was still the husband of Frances Elson of Portland, Oregon. The prosecuting attorney's office says he has additional wives in San Francisco and New York.

EAGLE ROCK

C. Of C. Upbuilding Will Be Discussed At Meeting Called For Tuesday Night

WITH several speakers on the list, destined to prove big drawing cards for the occasion, executives of the Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce are planning a "smoker" to be held at the Women's clubhouse next Tuesday night, April 24, when all phases and questions regarding the future interests of the people of Eagle Rock will be discussed.

Rev. George P. Taubman, pastor of the Christian church of Long Beach, is to address the assemblage on topics of interest to the up-building program the Chamber of Commerce is seeking to inaugurate. Mr. Taubman, who has won a wide circle of friends for himself at the beach city through his Sunday morning men's Bible class, and who enjoys the reputation of being one of the most popular public speakers in Southern California, has been active in the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, helping to keep up the morale of its members, during the trying days when Long Beach heard the re-organization bee begin to buzz. He has, moreover, delivered the baccalaureate sermons for several of the graduating classes from Long Beach high school during the time he has acted as pastor of the Christian church.

George W. Bunton, secretary of the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce, who has aided in the promotion of the general move for greater Los Angeles, is to be present also, and will tell the Eagle Rock members how Van Nuys did it. Earl M. Daniels, prominent resident of Eagle Rock, who practices law in Los Angeles, has promised to make a short address.

The "smoker" is to be the first of a series of such meetings, through which it is hoped the residents of Eagle Rock will become more closely allied with the movement to better civic conditions in Los Angeles and her newly added districts.

The American Legion and Auxiliary conducted their regular joint session at the public library last night. Both the auxiliary and legion held beneficial business meetings, after which a social hour followed. Refreshments were served by members of the auxiliary.

Afternoon at Cards

Members of the Twentieth Century club of Eagle Rock enjoyed a delightful afternoon at cards on Thursday afternoon, following a delicious luncheon served at 1 o'clock. Mrs. Arthur Doucette and Mrs. Hal Baiy proved to be most efficient hostesses, and everyone departed commenting upon the pleasure of the afternoon's entertainment. Proceeds from the games went to the Twentieth Century club's benefit fund.

A number of things were heard and seen in Eagle Rock Wednesday, when the freak storm pelted the roofs with a sudden shower of rain and hail, and the lightning flashed and the thunder crashed, making the old residents take off their hats and scratch their heads, trying to think when it was that such a thing had occurred before in California.

The lightning struck down near the Annandale Country club, hitting one of the main transmission lines of the Souther California Edison Company. No appreciable amount of damage was done, althogh parts of the systemu were affected, according to the report from the dispatcher's office in Los Angeles.

At the time of the lightning stroke, there were two Mexican workmen digging a basement for a house, near the Annandale club. The concussion was such, they reported, that bricks lying at the top of the excavation were hurled at them, and though the one successfully dodged the pelting, the other was struck and slightly injured.

One resident reported that when the lightning came in a sharp flash her telephone bell rang No one was on the wire, however she reported, and the lightning was held responsible for making freak telephone calls, as well as for crippling the Edison plant.

School Board Meets

At the meeting of the Eagle Rock school board, held Wednesday night, at the Central school instructions were given Mott M Marston, Eagle Rock architect, to draw up plans for the forthcoming improvements and enlargements of the Eagle Rock schools.

The $92,000 bond issue, carried early in March, will be utilized in making the East End schools of sufficient size to accommodate six grades each, and the Central school is also to receive several additions. The improvement work will be rushed through the summer months, in order to relieve crowded conditions next fall, it was brought out.

Get out your old overalls and straw hats, and find that pair of shoes you had decided to place in the attic, and get to work! It is spring, and furthermore, from April 22 to 28, Garden Week is to be observed in Southern California.

So the Federated Women's clubs have decided, their aim being to make Southern California the garden spot of the world, with abundant evidence on every hand to back the coveted reputation. All through the southland, they declare, that week is to be one of observance of the planting time.

Everyone who owns or has access to a piece of ground, even of the smallest dimensions, is urged to get busy and plant. It is to be an act of beautifying the beautiful, in planting gardens, for although California already has a nation-wide reputation for being one of nature's favored spots, the Women's clubs have decreed that there is yet room for improvement and have hence fostered Garden Week.

Programs are to be observed, with a view to encouraging exhibits of home-grown products, including flowers as well as garden produce. There will also be talks urging the further observance of Arbor Day, when tree-planting time comes.

The significance of Garden Week is to be brought before the minds of the school children through the Parent-Teachers associations and much stress will be placed upon the subject next week. Meantime, the Women's clubs want everyone to be ready to plant, and get into Mother Nature's beautifying game.

Lots of Old Papers

The huge drive for old newspapers, to be sold for the purpose of securing funds for the printing of a School Annual for the Eagle Rock Central school, has developed to such proportions that four tons of papers are now to be seen at the Central school. It is thought that by the end of the week, the amount will have grown to five tons.

The plan for the annual is being promoted by the students themselves, and members of the upper classes are excused from classes for a short time during each day to take charge of this drive for papers. The anaual will contain thirty-two pages, and will cover all the school activities of the grammar grades.

John Sokely, age seven, of South Royal drive, fell and broke his leg Thursday afternoon, when playing at the East school. According to the story told by his playmates, who witnessed the accident, the child was running and carrying a long stick, when one of his playmates mischievously tripped him. In falling, his leg was broken. He was taken to his home and placed under the care of physicians.

Guests at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Runde entertained Mrs. Sam Wisdom and daughter, Harriet, of Eagle Rock at dinner at their home Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford and son and daughter, Everett and Alberta, of San Francisco, are visitors this week with I. A. Ford, of 215 North Adams aveue.

Mr. and Mrs. George Van Sands, of East Eagle avenue, are entertaining a group of friends informally at their home tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Myers, who have been making their home for the past months at Ellis Court, are leaving this week for the east.

Makes Protest Over School System Cost

Editor, The Evening News:—Some rather high educational authorities are hitting our absurdly expensive public school system some pretty hard knocks. The enclosed opinion of one of these authorities expresses what some of us common people have been thinking for some time. Hoping that you may find room for it in The News.

J. C. SHERER,

The opinion referred to follows:

Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, thinks the public school will be endangered unless its cost is brought within the limits that the public can bear and unless it fulfills the primary objects for which it exists. President Pritchett pointed out in his sixteenth annual report that, if the demands of the schools continue to increase at the present rate, the inability of society to pay the cost must bring about radical curtailments. The increase in cost, he emphasizes, is due partly to increase in numbers, the betterment of facilities and the improvement of teachers' salaries. But a large part of the increase, he declared, is due to the fact that the school is no longer conceived of as primarily an intellectual agency, but as a means for learning something of every form of knowledge, and for acquiring a preparation for a trade or profession. In the endeavor to do all this, the public schools, he said, give smatterings of many things, weaken intellectual discipline and increase expense enormously. "The contention that the public school is an agency in which any child may be taught any subject is fundamentally unsound and leads to expense beyond any man's ability to estimate," said President Pritchett. "As a result, the schools are over-crowded, with ill-prepared pupils who think they are going to obtain something which the school cannot give them, and whose happiness and usefulness should be found through other means. Both financial necessity and eucational sincerity require that those who are responsible for public school education shall return to the feasible and educationally sound conception of the school, that they shall frankly admit what it can do and what it ought not to attempt, and that they bend their efforts to carry out these things that are feasible and necessary. Financial solvency and educational sincerity are to be found along the same path."

She charges that when she made a trip to New York that displeased him he broadcast the news of his disagreement from his radio station. He countered with a cross-bill, charging her with infidelity and intoxication.

INDORSES CHOICE OF NEW PAVING

Advancement Association in Favor of Action Taken By Committee

The Glendale Advancement association yesterday noon held its regular weekly luncheon at 201 East Harvard street in the Harriet Mae Tea Room.

A report of the mass meeting held Wednesday night in the council chamber at the city hall of property owners on Glendale avenue was given by H. L. Finlay of 330 West Doran street, member of the committee on the paving of Glendale avenue.

After some discussion, the organization voted to endorse the recommendation of the committee that Glendale avenue be paved with five inches of asphaltic-concrete by any company which would be willing to put up a bond to assure property owners that the paving would wear at least five years.

Herman Nelson of 700 East Broadway stated that he was perfectly satisfied with this recommendation. He expressed a doubt as to whether all the tax-payers interested would be satisfied as he asserted that a number of them seemed to be in favor of concrete.

Change Minds

S. C. Kinch of 328 North Brand boulevard declared that he had been in favor of concrete, too, until he had investigated the subject of paving, when he had changed his mind. He said that he had no doubt that many others had changed their minds likewise.

The only thing which is delaying the actual work upon the electrification of the railroad on Glendale avenue, according to a report of P. J. Hayselden of 612 East Broadway, is an amendment of the franchise which will permit electric cars instead of steam-driven locomotives to traverse this line. He said that this was now before the City Council of Los Angeles and that, while tentatively it has been agreed upon, no formal action has been taken.

Defendant in Morse Trial Refused Bail

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Harry F. Morse, indicted with his father and two brothers for alleged frauds perpetrated on the government in the construction of war-time ships, was arrested here in open court and refused re-admittance to bail. Morse's arrest followed the forfeiture of his $10,000 bond a few days ago and the issuance of a bench warrant for him, after his trial had been postponed sixteen times.

Rotary Club Hears High School Musical Talent In Program At Noon Meeting

MUSICAL talent from the Glendale Union High school entertained the members of the Rotary club at their luncheon yesterday noon in the auditorium of the Citizens' building.

The first number on the program was a violin duet, "Norwegian Dance" by Greig, the violinists being Misses Dorothy Watson and Marjorie Bailey and the piano accompaniest Miss Doris Moyse. They then gave "Cradle Song" by Hauser, and after it as an encore, "Rotary", in which the latter were joined by the voices of the club, led by Francis J. W. Henry.

The second number was a corent solo, "The Lost Chord," by Sullivan, Ivan Dow rendering the selection, accompanied on the piano by Miss Doris Moyse. An encore was given, the club responding with continued applause to the splendidly clear and subtle tones this talented boy evoked from his cornet.

The last number on the program was a double quartette from the Boys' Glee club, "Sylvia," by Speaks, and "The Postillion," by Molloy, being given, as a short encore. The eight boys participating were Paul Edmonds, Alton Marshall, Cyril Walton, Maurice Widdows, Claude Whitfield, Ivan Dow, Edward Stockbridge and Harold Jones. Miss Winifred Parker was the accompanist for this number.

Committee Reports

The balance of the meeting was taken up with reports of the various committees appointed last week by President Roy L. Kent to work out details for the big Loyalty Parade coming next Friday afternoon, April 27, under the auspices of the Glendale Rotary Club, in observance of International Boys' Week.

This Boys' Week movement started in 1920, in New York, with a view to focusing public attention on the boy and his problems. In 1921 it was observed in New York, Chicago, Newark, Baltimore and Kansas City. In 1922 it became international in scope. And today it circles the world.

Starting Monday, April 23, and continuing all week, in many lands and under many conditions, the boys will march in parades, engage in various public events and in other ways be brought actively into municipal and communal life and consciousness.

It is a big forward movement in world ideals, Rotarians feel, and from the White House comes a cordial endorsement, as follows:

"I am in harmony with the spirit of boyhood. I have particularly the feeling that the work you are doing has an especial value. Our boys need all the inspiration to the best ideals that can be afforded, and I hope your efforts in that direction will be fruitful. I am very glad to record my interest in and endorsement of your Boys' Week project.

"WARREN G. HARDING."

Make Public Plans

The transportation committee reported through its chairman, C. C. Cooper, that, inasmuch as there were nine members of the committee and nine schools in Glendale, a member had been assigned to each school; and that, furthermore, they were planning to cooperate with the several Parent-Teacher associations to achieve for the parade a high degree of success.

The closing of stores committee reported, calling attention to the recent proclamation of Mayor Spencer Robinson, requesting local merchants to close their places of business from 3 to 4 o'clock next Friday afternoon, the day of the parade. It was also reported that at Monday's meeting of the Retail Credit association, forty merchants had agreed to comply with the mayor's request. It was brought out that the city will be zoned and members of the committee will call on all merchants, urging them to close shop for the one hour of the parade.

H. S. Webb, chairman of the contest and prize committee, reported that plans have been made to award prize banners to the winning grammar school and intermediate school, and to the winning high school class, said prizes to be based on the decision of non-Rotarian judges, the points to be considered being general appearance (fifty per cent), and attendance and ideas (twenty-five per cent each).

Time of Starting

George B. Karr, chairman of the parade committee, reported that the parade would start at the corner of Harvard and Brand, promptly at 3 o'clock, and would march up Brand to California and back to the Glendale Theatre, where each boy participating will be a guest of Manager William A. Howe at a special performance. The parade will be led by the Boy Scouts, then will come the grammar schools, the intermediate schools, the High school band, the floats and the High school. Rotary officials in white flannel trousers and felt hats will be interspersed at various points, as officials conducting the march.

Roy L. Kent, chairman of the publicity committee, reported that from now on the committee will meet at his office each morning at 8 o'clock, for a short session to work up newspaper and other material for heralding the event.

Richardson D. White, chairman of the school committee, reported that speakers will visit each school between now and the day of the parade, and give brief talks as to what the Boys' Week idea is, and why. In these talks, loyalty will be stressed.

Special Program

William A. Howe, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported that he will present a special program at his theatre Friday afternoon, for the boys of Glendale who march in the parade, with a feature picture shown and some good vaudeville. Carrier boys for the papers will march in the parade, attend to their routes, and then be given tickets permitting them to enjoy some other performance at the Glendale Theatre.

Following the report of the above committee, the meeting adjourned.

C. D. Lusby was the special guest of A. R. Eastman, and gave a brief talk, later participating in the deliberations of the publicity committee.

Four visiting Rotarians were guests of the club—Edward Stafford, Marquette, Mich.; J. Will Johnson, Pueblo, Colo.; Alfred Friedrich, Traverse City, Mich., and Gene Tilden, Los Angeles.

Conductor's Coolness Halts Panic in Car

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—Coolness on the part of Conductor P. E. Stiller yesterday prevented a panic and possible serious injury to thirty passengers aboard a Pacific Electric car on the Santa Monica-Sawtelle line near Sixteenth and Georgia streets. A trolley which had jumped the line and become entangled with the wires, knocking off the high current line to the street, started flames shooting up at the side of the car.

Conductor Stiller warned the passengers to remain quiet in their seats when a number of them swarmed to the doors. They immediately sat down again and the fire was extinguished.

RED TAPE BINDS PARIS VISITORS

Police Regulations Hamper Foreigner With Swarm Of Blank Forms

By HARRY R. FLORY
For International News Service

PARIS, April 20.—France is a country of blank forms, permits, identification papers and "red tape."

Would you remain more than two weeks in the country? It is obligatory that you go within ten days to the prefecture of the police and obtain a permit to stay.

At the same time you might apply for a certificate of identity. For that there is required only a passport, five small photographs and a certificate of domicile, signed by the concierge of the house in which you live and stamped by the police commissaire of the arrondisement in which the house is located.

Some days later you may humbly apply for the card and receive it for the sum of ten francs.

Would you change your home in the city? Proceed again to the prefecture of the police and have your address changed on their records.

Would you engage in a certain line of business in France? Set about at once to get a permit.

Would you practice a profession? You must first obtain a license from the proper authorities.

Police Check Up

And what happens if you fail to make the necessary applications, obtain the necessary permits and keep in sufficiently close touch with the police?

Intermittently the newspapers report police raids on fashionable restaurants, Montmartre pleasure spots and other rendezvous of foreigners in the city. Half a hundred persons, perhaps, who are unable to produce the necessary papers, are packed into patrol wagons, taken to the police station and locked up. Next day they appear before a justice of the peace, plead guilty and are fined for a breach of regulations.

Would you leave the country? Do you want to take with you more than 5,000 francs' worth of foreign currency (now less than $350)? You go first to the Commission des Changes and secure a permit. Otherwise you may be turned back at the border.

And so it goes. Continually the foreigner puts his name down on first one blank and then another.

In case of emergency the French police could round up the subjects of any foreign country within a few hours and almost tell them more about themselves than they themselves know.

Sees Future America As Purely Industrial

MOSCOW, April 20.—America soon will cease to produce sufficient food for her own needs, in the opinion of Professor Tulaikof, who is head of the New York bureau of the Moscow Industrial exhibit. Professor Tulaikof recently arrived in Moscow from New York.

"America is rapidly becoming an industrial nation," he said, "and soon will be looking abroad for a considerable part of her food supply."

The rapid industrialization of America, in Profesor Tulaikof's opinion, explains the indifference of the United States to the European situation. The collapse of Germany and Austria, as well as the long continued crisis in European affairs generally has resulted, the professor contends, in a situation detrimental to the trade of England and favorable to America.

The logical development, according to Professor Tulaikof, is a reapproachment between America and Russia, the latter supplying the market for the product of American industries and the source of the food and raw materials which America will need.

Midgets Rebuild Home To Suit Their Size

LIMA, Ohio, April 20—Remodeling of their home and construction of special furniture for Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Wetherill, local residents, have just been completed. Wetherill, 50, is four feet one inch tall. His wife, 45, is four feet four inches in height. They are believed to be the smallest couple in Ohio.

"Ordinary furniture was too large and inconvenient for us. That is why we decided on special tables and furniture to correspond," explained Wetherill, who spent nearly four months fitting up the home. He did much of the remodeling himself in accord with the ideas of his wee bride. Wetherill is a rural free mail delivery carrier.

IMPOSE TAX FOR GREEK REFUGEES

War's Flotsam Is Stupendous Problem Confronting the Hellenes

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service

LONDON, April 20.—Greece's most serious problem today is not peace with the Turks or the reestablishment of a stable domestic government. It is the problem of caring for the more than a million refugees which the fortunes of war have cast upon the nation.

This is the opinion of Monsieur G. Collas, the Greek minister in London. The Greek government, Monsieur Collas declared in an interview, is becoming stabilized and is gradually working out the problems that confront it. Permanent peace with the Turks is still to be realized, but the Greeks are hopeful of a successful outcome of negotiations between the allies and the Angora government.

"Our gravest problem today," said Minister Collas, "is the care and disposition of the refugees. It is really a stupendous task and there is no immediate solution in sight.

Would Swamp England

"Imagine what the effect would be in England, with its population of more than 40,000,000, if another 1,000,000 people were to be brought here and added to the already large number of unemployed. You will then realize how much more serious a problem it is for Greece, with a total population of less than 5,000,000 and with her limited natural resources, to have the care of so large a number of refugees.

"The British government is caring for about 35,000 of the refugees, but 35,000 is a very small part of 1,000,000. The American Relief administration is doing a wonderful work, but it is not able to do all of the tasks that are required. Meantime the condition of the refugees with regard to food, clothing and epidemics of disease, is growing worse and becoming more of a burden and a menace to the Greek nation.

"Until peace with the Turks is signed, the government is forced to maintain a strong army. To meet the military burden Greece has been compelled to resort to the rather unusual experiment of a capital levy.

Outlook Seems Hopeless

"Even if peace were assured, however, and it were possible to spend the money now devoted to the needs of the military for the relief of the refugees, it would be utterly inadequate to the requirements of the situation. It would almost seem from a present viewpoint, that we are to have refugees with us always.

"Some measures of relief may be accomplished by the exchange of Turkish prisoners and it is probable that eventually a large number of the refugees will be colonized in western Thrace and in Macedonia. But this will require time and much money and does not offer any immediate solution of the problem. In fact, there is no solution in sight, so far as I can see, at the present moment."

Regarding the action of the Greek government recently in imposing a capital levy, Monsieur Collas declared that this should not be regarded as a socialistic measure. It was a measure dictated by the pressing financial need of the government, he asserted, and was agreed to by representative capitalists. Under its terms those citizens possessing more than a certain amount of wealth are required to pay, within five years, from three to fifteen per cent of their capital to the government.

COMMUNITY SING WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Head of Hollywood Chorus Has Charge of Program Here Next Week

One of the biggest community sings ever held in Glendale is scheduled to commence Wednesday night in the high school auditorium, according to A. L. Baird of 130 South Brand boulevard, chairman of the music committee for Community Service.

Mrs. J. J. Carter, president of the Hollywood Community Chorus, who was actively interested in the Hollywood Bowl and is credited with being largely responsible for its success, has charge of the program. She is the writer of the following letter:

"Hollywood will be with you next Wednesday evening, April 25, program to start at 8 o'clock. Hugo Kirchoffer will direct the community singing. We hope to bring at least one of our community choral societies, perhaps the Woman's club chorus and one or two soloists—Mrs. Carry Jacobs Bond if possible—and Sol Cohen, violinist.

To Bring Greetings

"George L. Eastman, president of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, will bring greetings from that body. Mrs. John F. Mead, president of the Hollywood Woman's club will bring their official greetings. Others of equal importance will come to respond to minute talks.

"It will be my great pleasure to preside over the meeting and introduce speakers and numbers. We hope our community movement shall be of some help and inspiration to you and that a great big spirit of friendship of friendliness and neighborliness may be the result of this inter-community meeting.

"I believe so thoroughly in this get-acquainted with our neighbors through singing together.

"Thanking you for your cordial hospitality so generously extended to us and looking forward with delight to coming over, I am,

"Yours for Community Singing,
"MRS. JOSEPH J. CARTER."

Head of School Plays Marbles With Pupils

GALLATIN, Mo., April 20.—Not only does L. A. Hosman, superintendent of the Gallatin public schools, believe that it is all right and highly beneficial to children to play marbles, but he also plays at the age-old spring pastime himself. He is a marble "broker."

Since marble season began it is not an uncommon sight to see Hosman at one of the school's playgrounds, mingling and "shooting" marbles with several towheaded youths.

One morning recently while the superintendent was in conference with several teachers, a tot of six years tugged at his coat and said:

"Mr. Hosman, buy this agate. I want to see the movies."

"I'm not in the market for agates today," the superintendent responded.

"Well, buy these," pulling out several crockeries. "What'll you pay?"

"A nickel for ten."

Five pennies were counted out in Hosman's palm and the deal was made.

HELICOPTER HAS NO VALUE, CLAIM

British Aviator Declares Experts Waste Time on Experiments

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service

LONDON, April 20.—While the aeronautical world spends its energy and resources upon the perfecting of the helicopter it might be working to greater advantage in other fields of aviation.

This is the conclusion drawn from statements made by Major F. M. Green, Fellow of the Royal Aeronautical society.

"I am convinced that the power expended in flight in a helicopter, flying at speeds found to be useful for aeroplanes, will be very much greater than for the aeroplane, and I believe that, apart from all other disadvantages, this fact alone will render the machine quite impossible for passenger carrying—at any rate until engines of much less weight per horsepower and materials with much greater specific strength are available," Major Green said.

Sees Little Future

"It seems that as a means of air travel the helicopter has little or no future, and the fact that it may be possible to rise and land in confined spaces is of little value if the ability to fly from place to place at a reasonable speed is absent. In itself the advantage of a vertical rise and fall is unlikely to be as great as might be supposed. The difficulty of effecting a landing of a direct lift machine in a wind is certain to be great. In the ordinary aeroplane the presence of a wind helps rather than hinders matters both in getting off and alighting. The case of the helicopter is worse than that of the airship, where considerable skill is necessary to effect safe landings in a high wind.

"Another aspect of safety is the question of stability. It is, of course possible to make an ordinary aeroplane stable in flight, and so long as the pilot is not undertaking any severe maneuver, such is sometimes made necessary by engine failure, the risk of accident from loss of stability is unimportant. The stability of a direct lift machine has, I believe, never been worked out numerically.

Not Especially Safe

"From the point of view of structural safety the helicopter is likely to present grave difficulties. The aeroplane deperds for its support upon a system of planes, which, except for small movements of control surfaces, are fixed. In the helicopter the equivalent of the plane structure is dependent upon a number of bearings and working joints, which will certainly increase the difficulty of making a safe structure that is reasonably light.

"It will no doubt, be urged that there are peculiar advantages that might be gained in war from a machine capable of hovering, but if this is so it is suggested in all seriousness that a balloon or an airship is a far more promising method of obtaining the result. It is likely to cost less and to be safer. The object of air travel is to get from place to place, and it seems highly unlikely that the helicopter type of machine will ever afford a useful means of doing this."

Although he gave his life to advocating cast iron plows, and his improvements of such plows were considered important in the history of the implement, Jethro Wood, of New York, was unable to market his patents or secure royalties.

What you should do for your family and for yourself is to serve Kellogg's Bran every day, in any one of several attractive ways, and fight constipation as you have never fought it before! AND YOU WILL WIN.

In the first place, Kellogg's Bran is delicious in its nut-like flavor, adding greatly to any cereal with which it is used. A popular way is to sprinkle bran on hot or cold cereal. Bran makes wonderful bakery products. Recipes are printed on every package.

Kellogg's Bran is served in leading hotels, restaurants and clubs. It is sold by all grocers.

TINY JUNK SETS PACIFIC RECORD

White Captain Paid Chinese Joss Twenty Cents for Fair Weather

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—Old salts who have sailed the seven seas rubbed their eyes recently and forswore all further inhibitions of substitutes for pre-Volstedian cheer as they looked in the lee of the Presidio seawall.

For there, bobbed as placidly as was her wont on the sluggish turbid waters of the Yangtse-Kiang, a tiny Chinese junk.

The Amoy, as the vessel is named, is the smallest craft probably ever to negotiate the wide expanses of the Pacific. In the face of typhoons, a terrifying experience with the giant python and the superstitious fears of his Chinese crew of three, Captain George Waarde, a white man, piloted the junk across the Pacific. He was ably aided and abetted by his Chinese wife and their 12-year-old son, Robert, who is mate on the Amoy.

Python Comes Aboard

Before she fared forth from Shanghai, seven and a half months ago, Captain Waarde, at the earnest solicitation of Mrs. Waarde, paid the jossman for good weather. His price was ten cents, and Captain Waarde, desiring especially good weather, paid him twenty. The result was too much wind. For two days typhoons swept the vessel about like a cork off the Chinese coast. As the storms subsided in the dead of night a giant python, swept to sea by the storm, boarded the vessel. The barking of a dog aroused Captain Waarde, and he killed the monster snake with four shots from his revolver. The snake provided fresh meat for the ship's company for several days.

"Much like chicken only better," said the captain.

KNOW HOUSEWIFE BY HER RANGE

Kitchen Stove Is Evidence of Whether Woman Is a Good Cook, Claim

The old adage about a workman and his tools needs to be revised, at least as regards the modern housewife. The desire and even the need for all the modern labor-saving devices do not go hand-in-hand with having them. The speed with which Johnny wears out his boots may preclude his mother's having an electric cleaner to gather up the dust those boots bring into the house. But here is the new adage, as it applies to the home: "A housewife is known by the care she takes of her tools."

A glance into the kitchen tells more than whether or not the housewife is a good cook. It tells whether or not she is a good mother, with children growing up with strong, sturdy bodies and keen, alert minds. It tells whether or not she is a good wife, striving by wholesome thrift, not mere saving, to carry her share of the family's economic burden. It tells whether or not she is a good citizen, believing that good government, like charity, begins at home. It tells whether or not she is an intelligent, alert woman, arranging her work so that she will have time for all the worth-while things of life, yet not forgetting for one minute that her own work, home-making, is the most vital, fundamental job in the world, and that no other work, professional or business, exceeds it in dignity or in opportunity.

Look at Stove!

How may all this be seen? It's an easy matter; look at the stove. Growing children need a tremendous amount of food, good, wholesome stuff, the kind that "sticks to the ribs." No matter how well cared for the range is, it is easy to tell one that is really used. There is an aroma of cookies and spicy apple dumplings hovering around it. If the stove has that bleak, unused look, it's ten to one the children are fed out of paper bags, and are under weight and behind in their classes. What applies to the children applies just as well to the man of the house. While we shudder when we hear the hackneyed phrase about the road to a man's heart, the fact remains that physical well-being is essential to mental well-being, and that all of us work better and play better with well-nourished bodies.

Thrift we can see with half an eye. The gas flame which licks the sides of the pans, the small sauce pan over the big burner, one small cake baking all by itself in a big oven: these are never seen in the thrifty woman's kitchen. Instead we see the well-regulated blue flame, intense without being big, the simmering burner in constant use, and the oven filled almost to capacity every time it is heated.

Keep Stove Clean

The woman who is a good citizen will keep her stove just as clean as she wants her town to be kept. Greasy burners and a rusted-out, sagging oven constitute the same menace to the family that do dirty alleys and antiquated school buildings to a community.

But it is the stove which the woman herself has selected, that tells just how she regards her job of home-making. A cumbersome, dirt-making coal range proclaims that its mistress clings to the old order of things, and even hints that she is "kitchen-minded," for that sort of a stove is a hard taskmaster. A cheap, flimsy gas range indicates that the housewife prefers to spend money on the more showy parts of the house, thinking that behind the scenes "any old thing will do," but proving that she cares more for outward show than for the welfare of her family. But the efficient, substantial gas range tells the story of the clear-visioned woman who sees that she can have time to keep up with outside interests if she brings to her aid modern kitchen tools, and she knows that this widening of her horizon makes her a better wife and mother, a more valuable member of society.

Texas Sheik Seeks For Refined Bride

BALTIMORE, Md., April 20.—Is there a girl in Philadelphia New York or some other eastern city near the seat of culture, which is Baltimore, who would like to marry a Texas sheik?

If so, all she has to do is to write H. P. Reynolds of Sugarland, Texas, but she had better hurry, because indications are that Reynolds will be deluged with offers to marry.

Reynolds, from way down in Sugarland, has appealed to the Baltimore police to find him a wife. She must be from the east, he says, "from or near Baltimore." And he wants a "young lady between the ages of 18 and 30," his objections to a widow being nil.

Here is how he describes himself:

"I am 24 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, weigh 155 pounds. I have blue eyes, brown wavy hair and am considered a good fellow. And last, but not least, I possess some means."

WORK OF PUPILS TO BE EXHIBITED

Director of Exposition to Donate Booth to H. S. Students

A comprehensive display of the work of the manual training classes of the Glendale Union High school at the Merchants' Industrial Exposition, that opens here on May 25, is assured by the donation of a booth measuring twenty feet square to the schools by H. L. Leavitt, director-general of the exposition, according to an announcement made this morning. In return for the gift of the space the students of the High school have agreed to conduct a ticket selling drive, by which each pupil agrees to dispose of four books of admission tickets, and on completing the sale of the four books he will be given a book for his own use, free of charge.

When it was first planned to place an exhibit of the handiwork of the manual training classes on display it was found that no funds were available from the schools that could be legitimately be devoted to paying for a booth, and the present solution of the difficulty has met with wide approval. Mr. Leavitt will also take up with Superintendent Richardson D. White the question of permitting the pupils of the grammar schools to sell tickets on the same basis as the High school students are doing, as it is realized that the boys and girls can reach many private families who are not members of any of the organizations that are supporting the exposition.

Mr. Leavitt also states that he has donated space in the exposition to the War Mothers of Glendale and to St. Mark's Episcopal church at which they may serve refreshments to visitors to the exposition.

Project Growing

The exposition, that was originally planned on a comparatively modest scale, has, according to Mr. Leavitt, assumed such proportions that it will not only be a credit to Glendale but that it will also be worthy of presentation in the biggest cities of the country.

An added attraction will be the fencing master and the women fencers from the Los Angeles Athletic club, who will give exhibitions of fencing twice daily, and the Elks' band will also give two concerts daily, from 7 to 8 and from 9 to 10 each evening.

Many local organizations are lining up behind the exposition and are working to make it a success, and it is urged that those who intend to visit the exposition buy the books of admission tickets, which will permit them to share in the daily drawings in which the prizes will range all the way from a watch to an automobile, as otherwise they will be charged the 25 cents admission at the gate.

American Equips Paris Home for French Blind

PARIS, April 20.—The friend of the blind, William Nelson Cromwell, a prominent American, has just made another important gift to his unfortunate French friends. His magnificent home, once the property of the Duke of Clermont Tonnerre, is being transformed into the largest braille printing establishment on the continent. Within its walls a vast amount of literature will be printed and later distributed to the blind soldiers of the war.

The number of war blind in France approximates 2,253; in Belgium, 93; in America, 300; in England, 1,714, and in Italy, 1,200.

Birds are fond of the viscid mistletone berries and often carry the seed away on their beaks, wiping them off on a branch, to which the plant germs stick and grow.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys If Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water, drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Advertisement.

Oregon Woman Named As Manager of City

ASTORIA, Ore., April 20.—Believed to be the first woman ever appointed manager of a city or town in the United States, Mrs. R. E. Barrett, business woman of Seaside, Ore., has been unanimously selected as compromise candidate for city manager of Warrenton, located below here on the Columbia river. The office carries a salary of $300 a month.

Several years ago Warrenton attracted nation-wide attention when its citizens elected Miss Clara C. Munson as its mayor, being the first town west of the Rocky Mountains to name a woman chief executive.

Mrs. Barret has been actively engaged in the realty business for the last 10 years and is said to have been very successful. Six years ago she initiated a campaign for the movement of the Montana wheat crop through Pacific Northwest ports. Successful in this undertaking she became a real factor in the development of the grain and milling business handled here and at Puget Sound ports.

Pearl Harbor Urged As Big Naval Base

HONOLULU, T. H., April 20.—Development of the naval station at Pearl Harbor is one of the most important features of the nation's naval programme because of its strategic value in guarding the Pacific Coast, according to Rear-Admiral J. V. Chase, commanding officer of the base force of the United States fleet, who is in Hawaii to inspect the Naval Air Service here.

Admiral Chase, on his arrival on the U. S. S. Procyon, hinted that the Navy Department is now considering plans which call for a great expansion in the Naval Air Service in the islands, including the possible establishment of a new naval air station at Lahaina, on the Island of Maui. He plans to go to Lahaina later in order to look over the situation there.

SEARCH FOR BANDITS

PAWHUSKA, Okla., April 20.—Searching parties took up a hunt for five bandits who murdered Robert Wilkerson, son of the chief of police, and shot "Shorty" Adams, a cab driver, during a running pistol fight that followed the blowing of a postoffice safe, before dawn. The robbers fled in such haste they got no money. Adams' death is feared.

The Way of Two Maids

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

"I give my word," the Lady Marvia faced her father calmly. "I give my word not to walk or ride beyond the borders of the garden, to be a prisoner in my own home and land, and all because of your foolish wars. And, in return, I ask a favor."

The count sighed and smiled. This had been easier than he had hoped.

"I ask I be allowed to see the Lady Dorothy."

Count Ramond's lips tightened. "Once a week, for an hour," he said, "and that is all."

This war between Dortlett and Banning had been on for years Neither place was large enough to support an army, neither dared brave an attack. The fighting was done over the borders and under cover of night. Raid provoked raid, forfeit for forfeit. And now Count Ramond had scored with the capture of Lady Dorothy. This was the master stroke, but it meant strong guards on the castle and a close watch on Marvia.

"And so you see, Dorothy, I am as much a prisoner, almost, as you. I am pledged not to go beyond the garden and you must stay in these rooms." She studied the other carefully. "We must find a way."

For weeks even the garden was denied the daughter of the castle, for Laurice of Banning strove valiantly to win back the maid of his heart. Failing in this, he had vowed he would seize Ramond's daughter and hold her for the trade. Men slept on their arms, and there was brave fighting on the roads. Then both sides wearied, and there was a spell of peace.

"And I had not promised I would not walk in the gardens today," Lady Marvia said to the prisoner, "I would walk the little path that leads to the gate in the far corner. And I might," she smiled meaningly, "open the gate and venture outside. One's pledge may be heavily inconvenient."

She picked up her long cloak and shook out its folds.

In the hall a guard saluted at the figure in the familiar cloak. The lady walked in the garden and a servant ran to the count. The gate opened to her touch. She looked outside, then back at the castle from which came the count and others. Here was a pretty picture of excitement. The lady laughed, then shrieked. Hoofs pounded, a man shouted, she was seized and swung to the saddle and the race was on.

Down the road toward Banning they fled, with enough men behind to fight off attack. The goal was the border, and the prize the daughter of the count. The man who held the girl laughed loud and dug his spurs into his horse.

"A Marvia for a Dorothy," he said as the pace slackened and the race seemed won. "Ramond's daughter a prisoner until Lauric's bride, the Lady Dorothy, is freed."

"It is not far now," he said later, when he saw the girl was ab but spent. "You will be cared for and treated kindly. We are not cruel to prisoners." The maid had no answer. If she had protested or struggled it would have been easier. Warfare on women was not to the man's liking. He thought of Dorothy and steeled himself.

"Lady Marvia," there was a note of apology in the voice, "I own I would rather cross swords with a man, but there was no other way. It was you, and your father, showed me this way. You have but to free Lady Dorothy."

The girl looked up.

"The Lady Dorothy is a captive forever."

"You mean?" Lauric sought to look under the cape, and his voice was hard. "Has anything happened to Dorothy?"

"She has lost her heart," the girl said, and she threw back the hood and smiled at her lover. "And it was Lady Marvia who sent me to you."

Beauty Chats

by Edna Kent Forbes

NICELY WAVED HAIR

There is not a bit of use telling young girls that straight hair is more becoming than curly. If they haven't curly hair they are almost certain to want it, and I must admit that there are times when a little wave, artificial or otherwise, is a great blessing. When you are on a journey, for instance, and must do your hair up hastily in a Pullman car, dressing room, or when you are tired and the face is full of draggy lines, or when you must dress hurriedly and cannot stop to put each lock of hair where it pleases you best—these are some of the times when wavy hair is a delight.

Don't ever, if you can help it, wave your hair with a hot iron. It dries the hair and eventually cracks it, and though it may be used in emergencies, it should never be made a general practice. If you must wave your hair frequently roll it on kid or rag curlers. These take more time than the iron, but they do not hurt the locks and they produce a soft natural-looking wave.

Part the hair just as you do when dressing it, then take small strands along all the outside part where it shows, moisten these slightly and roll them tightly around the curler. Some hair will wave in thirty minutes, but most people need an hour or two. The best thing, of course, is to do up the hair at night, covering the ugly curlers with a boudoir cap and take them off in the morning.

Do not use curling fluids. They are often harmful, the least they do is to coat the hair and keep it from ventilating properly.

Red Rose:—You are probably full blooded and feel the heat more than other people. As this is natural to you there should be no objection to it. The only thing to do is to avoid heating foods to some extent and drink plenty of water to keep the system flushed.

Miss J.:—Remove this extra fat on your arms by massaging, unless you are too stout all over. In that case diet until you are of normal weight.

E. G.:—As the yeast you mention must have been advertised, it could not have been mentioned in the "Chats." This treatment should only be used for a short time, and if you do not find that you are being benefited it should be discontinued. Possibly two weeks would be a test.

This makes a natural-looking wave

Tomorrow—A Cosmetic Book

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

After the spring housecleaning every woman has the urge to buy, at least, one or two new things to add the last touch of effectiveness to her clean home. Frequently the new thing she desires is a chair, table, or some other piece of furniture. But before she buys it she should ask herself whether an old piece would not do if it were refinished; or if she would not be just as well satisfied with a piece from a "second hand" store done over?

The refinishing of wood surfaces is not hard. This is how to go about graining and revarnishing old furniture, window "trim," or doors:—Sandpaper the old finish to make it smooth. It need not all be removed, so long as it is smooth. Then apply a coat of yellowish ground paint. Let dry.

The next step is "graining." This is done by applying a brownish graining preparation (covering only a few feet at a time) and running a quarter-round graining tool over this graining preparation while it is wet. The result will be wavy figures such as are seen in hard wood.

After you have grained the entire piece of wood, and let dry, a coat of varnish is put on over the graining. The paint store which sold you the ground paint, graining preparation and graining tool, will also sell you the proper kind of varnish for woodwork and furniture—a thicker varnish than is used on floors. This is necessary for a heavy varnish brings out the figure of the grain so well.

In varnishing woodwork a softer brush is needed than in varnishing floors. A woodwork brush has bristles which are not as stiff and heavy as a floor brush. For instance, a fitch of Russian ox hair brush will be found excellent for applying varnish to woodwork or furniture.

And now I want to say one last word to the housekeeper who takes her first step in refinishing wood: Be fearless! You can do as good a job as anybody if you will merely practise for a day on a surface that does not show (as a baseboard behind a large piece of furniture). My first piece of graining work was the top of a table—and my friends thought I had bought a new piece of furniture!

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

I, I, I: I, MYSELF, I
THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME
Chapter LIII
Diarrhea

Dear Mamas, because we know some of you are situated where you cannot go to a phiysician or to a baby clinic, Doctor wants me to tell you a little more about diarrheas of babies today. But if your baby has diarrhea and you can possibly see a baby specialist, you should do so and not try to treat him yourself.

There are four general types of diarrhea. I shall tell you what they are and a little of each of them, for it will help you to treat them intelligently if you have to do it yourself.

If you want the name of a book written on the management of the sick infant, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to my doctor and she will send it to you.

Diarrhea in Babies

First: Mechanical.
Second: Fermentative.
Third: Putrefactive.
Fourth: Ineffective.

The mechanical diarrheas are due to some mechanical obstruction and they are more frequent in the second year of babyhood, when we are beginning to eat dirt and paper and other such things, if we have not been taught not to put them in our mouths! They may also be due to unsuitable food given us in tastes at the table. Bad business, Mamas. You won't do it, will you?

We should have our own food at regular times. Food that our little tummies and intestines have been very gradually trained to care for.

It sometimes happens that milk will form very hard curds and these will act as foreign bodies. If these occur, Mamas, if you boil the milk three or four minutes the diarrhea will stop, if it is due to them. Boiling the milk makes it more digestible, contrary to what many people think.

We do not have fever, or if we do it is not high; nor do we have any great weakness in this type of diarrhea. A good dose of castor oil, one teaspoonful at two or three months and a tablespoonful after that usually clears these casts up quickly—if the bad habits causing them are stopped. Warm the spoon, Mamas, and the oil will slip off the spoon and go down easier. We don't mind it.

Fermentative Diarrhea: Fermentative diarrhea is due to the fermentation of the sugars and the starches and usually occurs when these are given in too great quantities. Although sometimes when the top milks are used and the formulas are rich in fat, the fat may cause the diarrhea first and then there is a fermentation of the sugars afterwards. These fermentative diarrheas are the most common diarrheas.

The bowel movements are very acid and make the babies very much inflamed and chafed. Babies must be wiped with a pure oil and powdered lightly with some pure talcum powder after each movement. The stools are foamy and watery and smell very sour.

In the treatment of this kind of diarrhea you must cut out all of the sugar (and gruels, if you are using them in the formula) until the movements are normal for three days. It is also best to weaken the formula and cut it down to one-third milk and two-thirds water, boiled together. Babies who have had a stronger formula than one-half milk and one-half water can have one-half milk and one-half water. Boil the water first, Mamas, then add the milk and boil three minutes, stirring all of the time. After the diarrhea stops, gradually increase the milk and sugar to what it was before. Perhaps you will have to keep up boiling the milk and water together for some time. Diluted orange juice or tomato juice will supply the vitamins lost.

Irrigation of the bowels once a day with warm water, with a teaspoonful of baking soda to the pint, is a valuable help in cleaning the bowels, and we will tell how to give the irrigations and more on diarrhea next week, Mamas. Au revoir.

WHO GETS TH E SYMPATHY?

A woman whom I know is separating from her husband.

Except for those who know them both very intimately, most of the sympathy goes to the husband.

"If she can't get along with him there must be something wrong with her," they say.

Or, "I think he is a saint to have stood her as long as he has. He is so nice to her and she often acts sulky and queer or says sharp little things to him. Why, they were at the Ross dinner and she made everyone uncomfortable by saying sharp, sarcastic things to him."

As a matter of fact (if there is such a thing as fact in cases where personalities conflict), he is a very disagreeable, trying person in private.

Of course it is hard to judge, but it does seem to me that if most of the people who think she is disagreeable could know the provocation he gives her they would feel differently.

A Hypocrite?

But because he is pleasant in his manner, because he never argues about family matters before outsiders, because he has an agreeable smile and good manners, people think the trouble must be all with her.

A hypocrite?

I don't know.

A pleasant manner is natural to him. Even when he is being most selfish in the home he is often unruffled and well mannered.

The point is simply that his offenses are those of character, rather than of manner.

The More Amiable Person

But this is the reason I speak of it. His wife feels very bitterly because she knows sympathy is with him. She says it shows that people are always ready to take the man's part.

It doesn't. What it does show is that unless there are grave offenses on one side, people very naturally will side with the person who appears most amiable in public.

I know a similar case where the sympathy goes to the wife because the husband is always nagging her in public, and she is very sweet and serene under his apparent persecution. As a matter of fact, in ways that are not immediately apparent, she is a most exasperating person. But people don't know that, and they do know that the husband makes them uncomfortable by forcing them to sit in on scenes of matrimonial tension, and so they blame him and regard her as a martyr.

People Hate Bickering

The point is that if you want public sympathy and approval you have got to so conduct yourself in public that you won't have the appearance of being hard to live with, and won't make other people uncomfortable by putting them under the strain of listening to your bickering.

The only thing in worse taste than public demonstrations of affection between married folks is public demonstrations of lack of affection. It always makes the onlooker feel so self-conscious and uncomfortable. Anyone who is the aggressor in such demonstrations will inevitably forfeit sympathy and approval. Of course, it takes self-control to keep one's animosities under cover, but it is a self-control exerted in an excellent cause.

TODAY—Roland Krebs, Chicago, is reminded of English country life by the maneuverings of Chicago's mounted police.

TOMORROW—William G. Cayce tells of a trip to the Hebrew Home for the Aged in Los Angeles.

By ROLAND KREBS
For International News Service

CHICAGO, April 20.—Even if a person has only a puny little imagination he can enjoy some of the picturesque streaks of English country life right here in Chicago.

And downtown at that. All of this is possible, at least in one phase, through the city's obliging police department. The downtown district is patrolled by mounted policemen who have much of the dash of dragoons about them.

Just let one stir up a commotion of some kind and he'll be surprised by the alacrity with which a whole squadron of these municipal cuirasseurs will gallop up and hustle him off to the clink.

The English country life? That's provided when the squadrons relieve one another. They race through the streets, two abreast and four when it is possible. One horseman on the left flank is equipped with a curley-cue little cavalry trumpet that is—well, cunning appears to be the only word that will describe it.

Here is the picture: You're plodding along LaSalle street, say, wondering whether Beth. Steel B. is a better buy than Sub. Boat or Am. Br. Shoe. Elevated trains roar and impudent motor horns bark. Life in the city is so humdrum.

Suddenly there is a merry tirra-lira from the—ah, cunning horn. Instantly Beth. Steel B. and Va. Car. Chem. and other stocks and bonds and things mercenary fade away into a mist.

You smell the fresh, earthy turf of England. The bark of the alley mutt becomes the deep bay of the majestic hound. You hear the pant of the desperate fox and the drum of hoofs riding hard behind the hounds. Oh, it's great.

The trumpeter is rather pleased with himself and the admiration his horn provokes, and at each corner he tunes up for a fare-you-well to let the traffic policeman hold back important brokers' limousines and bustling truck drivers so this glittering cavalcade may pass. It's gay, that's all.

The mention of hounds leads to the story told of a wealthy rounder here who, when in his cups, entertained his roistering friends with a "fox hunt." For weeks in advance of the contemplated spree, so the story runs, he would have ruffians stealing in and out of the alleys gathering up stray cats and dogs.

These were kept caged up, the dogs on one side of the inclosure, the cats on the other. The yowling of the cats and the barking of the dogs combined to make both camps thirsty for each other's blood before the night of the fox hunt arrived.

After a night of carousing—this is all according to the story—the merry huntsmen, wobbly on their feet, would saunter out at dawn in scarlet jackets and creamy breeches to their mounts.

At the word the cats would be released and go helter skelter down the boulevard, with the dogs close at their tails. Then the dapper drunkards would press close behind on the hired horses. The chase was wild and noisy at all times and a source of much pleasure to residents trying to enjoy their matutinal forty winks.

Wouldn't the huntsmen enjoy the fox hunt? And doesn't it smack of Sussex or suffolk or Hastings-on-Tyne or something?

BLACK PATCHES IN THE NIGHT SKY

The Great Nebulae in Andromeda

Photographs of the night sky show large dark patches scattered here and there over the heavens. There are many such black patches amid the brilliance of the Milky Way. To the eye they seem like openings in the starry field, through which we look out into the starless void of space beyond.

But the newest idea is that these patches are in reality clouds of star-dust, or, perhaps, masses of cold gas, which are sufficiently dense and opaque to hide the stars behind them.

Most remarkable of these patches is the so-called "Coal Sack," which, lying close to the Southern Cross, and therefore visible only in the southern hemisphere, looks like a huge hole in the starry canopy. It attracted the attention of voyagers in those latitudes as far back as the fifteenth century.

The suns which we call stars must eventually burn out and cease to give life; hence it is reasonable to suppose that there are in the universe at least as many dark and extinguished stars as bright ones. In like manner gas or stardust, may become dark in time.

We know very little about the nebulæ. The theory formerly held that they were star systems in the making is no longer accepted as sure fact. Their shine in some instances seems to be due to bright stars which are hidden in their midst.

Professor E. E. Barnard, of the Yerkes Observatory is inclined to believe that the black patches—described long ago by the younger Herschel as "vacancies through which we seem to gaze out into an uninterrupted infinity"—are in reality dark nebulæ silhouetted against bright, starry regions, and concealing parts of the latter from our view.

Astronomers are inclined to believe that (leaving ether out of the question) there is in space everywhere a substance of exceeding tenuity, composed of microscopic and widely-cattered particles. Its density is perhaps one-trillionth of that of the air we breathe. Yet a sphere (imaginary, in space) whose radius was the distance from the earth to the star nearest to our Solar System would contain a quantity of this substance equal to 1000 times the mass of the sun.

According to theory, if we were far enough away from the sun there would be enough of the microscopic particles between ourselves and that luminary to render it invisible to us.

If this be fact, stars that are beyond a certain distance in the infinite void of space are veiled from our view by the mysterious substance in question. Were the case otherwise, it is argued, an infinite number of stars (all of which are suns) would spread a golden radiance all over night sky.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories — By Howard R. Garis —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND BILLIE'S HORNS

"Well, I wonder what's the matter now?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, as she looked from the window of the hollow stump bungalow one morning as she was getting breakfast.

"What's going on?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who had just finished eating some carrot shortcake with cream sauce. "Is the Fox coming?"

"No, but Mrs. Wagtail is, and her son Billie is with her," answered the muskrat lady housekeeper.

Into Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow pranced Mrs. Wagtail, the lady goat, and with her was Billie, with two horns growing out of the top of his head.

"Good morning, Uncle Wiggily," bleated the lady goat, and from the way she talked Nurse Jane could tell that something serious was the matter. "I came over early," went on Mrs. Wagtail, "hoping to catch you before you went out adventuring."

"Yes, Mrs. Wagtail," spoke Uncle Wiggily, encouragingly. "What is the trouble?" and he looked kindly at Billie, who hung his head.

"It's about Billie's horns," said the little goat boy's mother. "Billie has fallen into a bad habit. He tickles his friends in the ribs with his sharp pointed horns. His father and I have tried to make him stop, but we can't. We——"

"I only poke 'em with my horns for fun!" exclaimed Billie. "I don't do it to be mean."

"I know you don't, Billie," spoke his mother. "But it is a bad habit, just the same. You shouldn't use your horns that way. Why, only this morning," she went on, "Jackie Bow Wow came over to play with him, and Billie, the first thing, gave Jackie a dig in the ribs with the horns, and Jackie howled and ran away. I tell Billie he won't have any friends left to play with if he doesn't stop horning them."

"That's true, Billie," said Uncle Wiggily. "But what do you want me to do, Mrs. Wagtail? I suppose Billie's horns are growing fast now. He likes to try them to see how strong and sharp they are."

"That's it, Uncle Wiggily!" bleated Billie. "I just can't help using my horns."

"But you should use them in the right way and not tiggle and toggle and taggle your friends," said Billie's mother. "I was thinking, Uncle Wiggily," she continued, "that perhaps you could take Billie to Dr. Possum and have corks or something put on the ends of Billie's horns so he couldn't stick people."

"Why, yes, Mrs. Wagtail, I'll do that," offered Uncle Wiggily kindly. "Come along, Billie, we'll see what we can have done about your horns."

On the way to Dr. Possum's office Uncle Wiggily was very kind. He didn't speak once about Billie's horns, or the bad habit. The old rabbit gentleman talked about spinning tops and playing marbles and flying kites until Billie smiled all over his face.

And then, all of a sudden, before Uncle Wiggily and Billie could run away, out of the bushes jumped the Bob Cat.

"Ah, ha! I'll have ears to nibble today!" howled the Bob Cat. He caught Uncle Wiggily by one claw and Billie by the other and started to drag them off to his den.

"Oh, dear me!" sighed Uncle Wiggily. "This is terrible!"

But, all at once, Billie gave his head a twist, and one of his sharp horns struck the Bob Cat in the ribs.

"Hi, there! What are you doing?" snarled the Bob Cat.

"Oh, I forgot! I mustn't horn you," said Billie sadly. But the Bob Cat had not taken many more steps before Billie gave his head another jiggle and again his horn struck the Bob Cat in the ribs.

"Wouchie! Ouchie!" howled the bad chap. "What are you doing?"

"Oh, please excuse me!" begged Billie. And then the goat boy saw Uncle Wiggily wink one eye, queer like, and then Billie shook his head very hard, and he joggled and jiggled and jaggled his horns so fast in the ribs of the Bob Cat that the bad chap laughed and giggled and turned somersaults and then he had to let go of Uncle Wiggily and Billie, who ran away without having their ears nibbled.

"I guess you don't need any corks on your horns," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "We don't need to go to Dr. Possum's. It's better to have sharp horns when a Bob Cat catches you than no horns at all, Billie. But after this try not to tickle your friends." And Billie never did after that.

"I don't do it to be mean! exclaimed Billie.

So we come to the end of the story. But if the paper of pins doesn't get so proud that it will not speak to the needle and thread when it meets them out walking in the park I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily fooling the Fox.

CURRENT EFFECT PRODUCES ELECTRONS

We generally think of electrons in connection with vacuum tubes. However, when an electric current flows in a condutor, there is a flow of extremely small particles of electricity called electrons. The study of these particules is important, not only in connection with current flow, but also in light and heat and chemistry. The reason for this is that all matter contains them. Matter of all kinds is made up of atoms, which are extremely small parts of matter. (A drop of water contains, billions of them.) The atoms contain electrons, which consist of negative electricity. The electrons are all alike and are in turn much smaller than the atoms. Besides containing electrons the atoms also contain a certain amount of positive electricity. Normally the positive and negative electricity are just about equal. However some of the electrons are not held so firmly to the atom but that they can escape when the atom is violently jarred. When an electron leaves an atom there is less negative electricity than positive in the atom; in this condition the atom is said to be positvely charged. When, on the other hand, an atom takes on one or more extra electrons, it is said to be negatively charged.

The atoms in matter are constantly in motion, and when they strike against one another an electron is sometimes jarred loose from an atom. This electron moves about freely among the atoms. Heat has an effect upon this process. This sort of a motion of electrons is made use of in a vacuum tube, which will be fully discussed in later articles. Thus the motion of electrons inside a wire or other conductor is the basis or principle of electric current flow.

ANTENNA AMMETERS

We recently drew attention to the above subject. Since then the ammeter shown herewith has appeared. An antenna ammeter, if the best aresults are expected, is positively essential in a C. W. transformer sest. Only by the use of such a meter can the experimenter hold proper check on the operation of his tube transmitter.

This ammeter is of the hot wire type. It has been designed with a view to accuracy and sensitivity to slight current variations; moreover, particular care has been taken to insure it remaining accurate through a long period of use.

As shown in the illustration, it is so constructed that it can be mounted flush with the transmitting panel or be back connected. A special adjustment for taking care of temperature varations is provided. Its size is 2 1-3x3¾ inches, particularly adaptable for small panel sets.

Pasadena Rounds Up Street Car Smokers

PASADENA, Cal., April 20.—In a sweeping drive against smokers on Pasadena street cars, twenty violators were rounded up by the police and it was announced that the "clean up" will continue until the smoking ceases. The campaign came as a complete surprise to hundreds of car riders who had come to regard the law lightly.

"By night the Pasadena jail will be crowded with violators, unless they choose to obey the city ordinance before that time," Chief of Police Charles Kelley declared.

$61,000 Bond Asked In Oil Fraud Charge

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—Caught as he was about to sail from the United States, according to the officers, E. E. Rowell, said to be a San Francisco attorney, faces prosecution on charges of defrauding oil investors out of $200,000 in bogus transactions. Rowell was taken into custody as he was boarding a train for the harbor to take a steamer. He was immediately taken before Justice Hanby and placed under $61,000 bonds on three counts.

Rowell's capture ended several months search started by the district attorney's office after numerous Los Angeles persons had complained they had lost large sums by investing in Rowell's alleged phantom oil lands in Colorado and Utah.

NAVY SHAKE-UP

WASHINGTON, April 20.—With the approval of President Harding, Secretary of the Navy Denby yesterday afternoon called for a general shake-up in the high command of the United States navy. The changes include the transfer of Rear-Admiral Robert E. Coontz, now chief of operations, to the supreme command of the United States fleet, effective about August 5th.

Flood Is Blamed for Big Spree in Ohio

BRIDGEPORT, Ohio, April 20.—Not since Ohio went dry—some time before Uncle Sam followed suit—has there been a real flood in cities and towns along this section of the Ohio River—a flood that covered the streets, flooded homes and stores and halted all traffic.

When a big flood visited Bridgeport many persons got wet on the inside, also. It was said that men who never got drunk at any other time were soused during flood time.

Since prohibition put the kibosh on dispensing wet goods, the river has never made its appearance in the streets to tempt flood-time booze lovers into drinking bootleg liquor. The last big local flood occurred ten years ago, when the heavy rains that swept Ohio caused local streams to rise so high that four persons were drowned in this vicinity.

Mother-in-Law Saves Alleged Dry Violator

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 20—Unjust malignity has been heaped upon mother-in-law, in the opinion of John Hernich, of St. Joseph county. Hernich's mother-in-law turned out to be his best friend.

Hernich was brought before city judge DuComb on a charge of violating the liquor law after a bottle half filled with moonshine whisky had been found beneath his bed.

"It is not mine," he told the judge.

His mother-in-law, Catherine Fusick, eighty years old, stepped forward and declared that the bottle belonged to her.

"I use whisky to rub my joints," she said.

Hernich was released.

Blossoms from oak, ash, black walnut and cottonwood trees cause a "spring" hay fever or cold that may be cured by inoculation from the antigen from the plant causing the trouble, say investigators.

Blind Student Adept In Scholastic Work

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 20.—Among 2000 students who can see, hear and use all their other faculties, Earl Fisher of Morgantown, W. Va., blind since he was eight years old, has held his own in his classes and will graduate next summer from West Virginia University. Fisher has taken full college work, majoring in economics and business administration, and in only one course has he failed to make a passing grade.

Fisher is a rooter at every athletic contest, but particularly football. A friend usually tells him the plays, but he follows the progress of the game closely by sound. He takes his class and lecture notes on a pocket slate in the New York point system and studies from the usual text books by having his father or some other member of his family read the subject matter over just once to him. He uses a watch of the ordinary type, with the crystal removed, and is an expert on the typewriter.

He uses a straight blade razor when he shaves "to show them I don't need to use a safety razor," he says. "I hardly ever cut myself." He plays a violin well and can handle tools in manual training with unusual skill. He goes to and from all classes alone and has no trouble in getting from the university through the streets of the city to his home, more than a half mile from the university. He is preparing to go into business here upon graduating, already being able to earn most of his own expenses selling insurance in the time he can spare from his studies.

Greens, Salads, Milk Form Healthy Diet

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 20.—"We tried something new when we developed the ability for inventions, and we have been eating wrong," declared Dr. E. V. McCollum, nutrition expert, Johns Hopkins University, addressing a local audience.

"Eat a liberal amount of greens once a day and a plentiful helping of salad twice a day. Increase your consumption of dairy products. After that, go as far as you like and you won't go far wrong," continued Dr. McCollum.

"Sour milk, meat and small vegetables form the diet of inhabitants of Turkey, Arabia, Abyssinia and other countries where we find men and women of perfect physique."

Reducing the speed of a high-powered airplane without slowing down the engine has been demonstrated by a Frenchman, by mechanically increasing the wing surface.

Seek to Fix Alibi for Accused Slayer

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—Efforts to establish an alibi were made by attorneys for Forest Cecil Mingle, who is on trial with W. R. Krise before Judge McCormick, charger with the "diamond ring" murder of Nicholas Dabelich, Oakland cafe owner.

The defense introduced as a witness Mingle's wife, who testified that Mingle was in Oakland the day following Debelich's slaying, at an hour earlier than he could have reached Oakland if he had been in Los Angeles the night before.

Mrs. Mingle testified that her husband was in Oakland between 10 and 11 o'clock on the morning of October 17, last year. The murder was committed on the night of October 16.

Brains! Organization

Brains! Geological

Brains! Drilling

The big oil companies employ geologists who are paid not to make mistakes nor guess. When they locate leases they are in the right place for production—ON STRUCTURE.

These big oil companies back the judgment of their experts by buying leases. They drill on these leases and get production at minimum risk.

Mr. A. R. Sweet, our geologist, was for years with the U. S. Geological Survey. His expert knowledge is sought by some of the largest oil companies in the country.

He tells us that we are on top of the oil structure. He further believes that every new well coming in strongly bears him out that the present oil production of Santa Fe Springs is drained from the Western Extension of the field.

He therefore calls this Western Extension the "Mother Pool."

C. C. Stall Oil Association Has a four-acre lease at Santa Fe Springs. It is surrounded by leases of the biggest oil companies in the country, such as Standard, Amalgamated, Union, Shell, Globe Petroleum, Associated and many other independent companies. It is inconceivable that all of these big oil companies would have secured these leases around us without knowing that the next big production is to come from this immediate territory.

offers you this chance at Santa Fe Springs. Good as our proposition is and as sure as we are that we are going to strike oil in big paying quantities, we do not urge anyone to take a chance if it is going to cripple them. Don't gamble with your bread and butter, even on what looks like a sure shot. But if you have the money to spare and want to take a chance on oil for big returns

Here is the offer

60% of all the oil produced.
An association with BIG, RESPONSIBLE, EXPERIENCED MEN.
A location second to none.
You get back every dollar that you put in before these men get one penny.
NO FABULOUS SUM was paid for this lease, nor is any money returned to the organizers out of production.

Here are the Men!

Go to any bank or mercantile agency and ask about them. Investigate their integrity, honesty and responsibility. You will find them a thousand per cent good.

A TURNKEY JOB

We have the best drilling firm in the country on this job, Rogers and Edwards. They have put down sixty holes without a failure. They don't drill "wildcats." They are responsible financially and morally. They know their business.

They are under contract to do a "turnkey job" for us. This means they must drill a perfect hole to the Meyer sands. If they don't, they must skid their rig and drill another one without further expense to us and you.

IT'S GOING FAST

Our interests cost $100.00 each. We had 3000 of them.

The many customers of the U. S. Finance Company all over the country are buying these interests. They know that when we make an offer it is right.

The many friends and acquaintances of the organizers are acting without hesitation! They know that when these men get behind a proposition it is right.

The general public, attracted by our straightforward advertising, is taking advantage of it.

Don't delay action! We are going over the top big and fast. Send your check for one or as many interests as you can afford to buy—Do it now—TODAY. We may not BE ABLE TO E TEND another invitation.

Open evenings until 9:00 O'CLOCK for your accommodation.

JAMES RHOADES SELLING REALTY

Former Secretary C. of C. Tells Why Rossmoyne Is Good Investment

James M. Rhoades, who, for the past two years, has been secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, has joined the force of the Haddock-Nibley Company. Mr. Rhoades will devote his efforts to assisting in the sale of Rossmoyne, the wonderful $2,000,000.00 property which the Haddock-Nibley Company recently acquired from Judge Ross. In an interview regarding his affiliation with the Haddock-Nibley Company, Mr. Rhoades says "In giving my opinion of the Haddock-Nibley Company and their marvelous property at Rossmoyne. I do not desire to say anything depreciatingly of any other subdivision in Glendale. To me, they are all wonderful, and I am positive that every investor in any of them will reap handsome returns."

"I have had many years of experience in the subdividing business; in fact, I put in twenty years in subdividing property in Seattle, Spokane and Everett, Wash., and also in Missoula, Bozeman and Butte, Mont.

"I have observed conditions in Glendale for the past two and one-half years very closely, and I feel confident to venture my judgment on the trend of realty matters here. After severing my connections with the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, I studied the entire local field with a view to again getting into the subdivision business, and, after carefully considering the situation from every angle, I decided on the Haddock-Nibley Company at Rossmoyne.

Many Advantages

"First, because I had observed and admired the remarkable manner in which the Haddock-Nibley Company had laid out and developed Glendale Heights, in what was then a remote section of the city, making it into what is now one of the prettiest residence sections, and having met Mr. Haddock and Mr. Nibley on several occasions, was thoroughly convinced of their honesty and ability.

"Secondly, thousands of people have been waiting for years for the opening up of this property, known as Rossmoyne, situated as it is on practically the only direct highway north and south out of Glendale, and, with more than one mile of frontage on Glendale avenue and a similar amount of frontage on Verdugo road, its location is choice beyond question. It also has splendid transportation facilities, in the fact that the Glendale and Montrose electric car traverses the entire length of the property.

"Again, every lot in this entire property, which consists of 700 acres, has on it full-bearing orange, lemon, apricot, grapefruit, olive, sycamore, or live oak trees.

"The character of the improvements to go in here, all of which are to be fully paid by the company, will make Rossmoyne one of the most desirable home places in all the world.

"I am converted to it heart and soul and am confident of the ability of the Haddock-Nibley Company to fulfill all its promises, and, being sold on it through and through, I am now going to find a great deal of pleasure in selling it to others."

American Soldier Is O. K. Says German Maid

DEFIANCE, Ohio, April 20.—Nothing but praise for the American soldier of the Army of Occupation can be heard from Miss Elsie Becher, 26-year-old German, who recently arrived here from Coblenz, Germany. At the home of Fred Foelker, Sr., she is awaiting the discharge of Fred Foelker Jr., 33, from the army next July. Then they plan to get married. Fred and Elsie met while Fred was serving at Coblenz with the American Army of Occupation.

Declaring the German people have no use for the French and would resist them with weapons, instead of passively through strikes, if they were properly equipped, Miss Becher voiced vehement hatred for the French soldier.

Although she left Coblenz before the French invaded the Ruhr, she said the hatred was manifested daily in quarrels between French and German citizens, many of the "settos" resulting in fatalities.

The German laborers, she said, are extremely hard pressed because of the depreciation of the mark. Unable to buy eggs and bread, they eat only potatoes and cabbage, Miss Becher said.

Britain's Surplus to Be Applied on Debt

LONDON, April 20.—Great Britain has a surplus of 101,000,000 pounds sterling (about $491,000,000) which will be used to reduce Great Britain's debt, Chancellor of the Exchequer Stanley Baldwin announced in the House of Commons in introducing the new budget.

RATES UNCHANGED

WASHINGTON, April 20.—No increase in the re-discount rates of the federal reserve board is contemplated now to check business inflation. it was declared at the treasury department. Members of the federal reserve board and officials of the treasury hold that the present commercial boom is proceeding along natural lines and that higher discount rates are necessary to prevent such evidences of speculation as have come to light.

COMMENT
That's All

No Reason For Any Klan
Richardson Progressive
Big Help to Glendale
No Need of Annexation

By Gil A. Cowan

ACTIVITY of klansmen in California at churches and funerals again stirs the thought of all those who are not within the "hooded realm" as to when these "knights" will forget the foolishness that is bound to brew trouble for some one.

There is no moral or religious reason for a klavern of the klan existing in Glendale or Colton, except that there is no law against it and people can do much as they please. Personally, the writer has no reason to doubt the sincerity of the members, but it is ominous that such an organization should exist.

As a friend once said while a secret religious order was marching down the main street of a distant city in full regalia with the band playing "Onward, Christian Soldiers," it is only human for men to want to get out and parade around a bit.

Darned if we don't believe it. Give any of us a reason and we will make a monkey out of ourselves and show justifiable pride in so doing.

But there is a bill now before the senate for final action making the wearing of hoods in public a misdemeanor and there is every probability it will pass.

"That the Sacramento Union enthusiastically supports Governor Richardson appears from the following editorial:

"Governor Richardson day by day is proving to the people of California that they made no mistake when they selected him as their state executive.

"A real progressive to the core, he is not swayed by political quacks and quackery; the demagogue is not in him; he is the governor of the people and for the people, a real governor who makes no compromise as between common sense, right and justice on the one hand and political expediency on the other.

"His approval of the community property bill is a splendid evidence of the manner of executive who is directing the state's affairs.

"All the pressure that big business could wield was exerted upon him to veto this most admirable measure. Business does not want the bill. Business has fought it at every turn. Business will continue to fight it. It proposes to spend thousands to carry the bill to a referendum, forcing the state to spend thousands more.

"But the measure is fundamentally right. An enlightened state and an enlightened nation should be ashamed to have allowed the condition which it abolishes to remain so long—if any claim to progressive ideas is made whatsoever.

"Being right, being just, being progressive, the bill was approved, logically enough, by the Governor."

In the passage of Assemblyman Weller's bill No. 832, permitting Glendale to hook up with the Los Angeles outfall sewer under a contract with the metropolis, another great step has been taken toward the ultimate development of this most favored suburb.

Assemblyman Weller and Senator A. Burlingame Johnson who fostered the measure in the senate, are to be complimented for their good work while City Attorney Hartley Shaw, who prepared the measure at the suggestion of the Los Angeles city attorney's office, also merits a deal of credit.

Efforts were made by the power companies to amend the bill, but these were promptly voted down and municipal co-operation now is made possible without the necessity of annexation or interlocking assessment districts.

Hotels, apartments, business structures may now go ahead with full assurance that there is sewage relief in sight if the cities of Los Angeles and Glendale immediately get busy on the program to which they are pledged.

Cocoanut Palms for Sand Island, Hawaii

HONOLULU, April 20. — Sand Island, the barren sandbar which forms the outer edge of Honolulu's harbor, will some day in the not too distant future wave an aloha of breeze-stirred palms to the thousands of passengers aboard liners arriving at and departing from Hawaii. The planting of a triple row of cocoanut palms, the first step toward the beautification of Honolulu's harbor, was started recently under the direction of Gerrit P. Wilder. At present Sand Island is only a barren stretch of land, with a background of marshes and mudflats. The palms are expected to give a tropical touch to the harbor entrance.

Long Distance Runner Wins Marathon Race

BOSTON, April 20.—Clarence De Mar, veteran of many marathons, won for the second consecutive time the annual twenty-five mile marathon of the B. A. A. De Mar's time was two hours, 23 minutes, 47 2-5 seconds. His record last year was 2 hours, 18 minutes and 10 seconds.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., April 20.—Mitchell Choteau, wealthy Osage Indian youth, foled the doctors. When Choteau was brought into a local hospital, suffering from a broken back, which he had received when his automobile turned turtle earlier in the evening, physicians declared the youth would die before mornin. Choteau was removed to his home recently, where he died. He had lingered more than two months and a half with a severed spinal cord, despite physicians' predictions that the end would be a matter of but a few hours.

Co-eds Split Even on 'Career' or 'Husband'

ATHENS, Ohio, April 20.—To find out whether co-eds at Ohio University preferred a "career" to a husband someone in authority issued a questionnaire. Of the 109 young women who replied, 53 preferred careers, 48 frankly asserted their preference for husbands and 8 announced they wanted both a career and a husband.

Those desiring husbands expressed the wish that their future mates possess brains and good looks—also, salaries ranging from nothing to $25,000 a year. Ninety of the young ladies said they could cook. The others stated they could "make fudge."

ENGLISH SHIVER OVER WAR TALK

Conflict Believed of Remote Possibility; Air Force of British Inferior

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service

LONDON, April 20. — Every once in a while someone sends shivers up and down the spinal column of England by discussing the possibilities of war between Great Britain and France.

These "shivery" statements always lead to discussions of Great Britain's air power, and as the discussions proceed the shivers come in more and more frequent waves.

Great Britain is notably weak in her air defense, and the people of the South of England will remember the terrors of aerial attacks in the last war.

Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary of state for air, stated that he was conscious of the existence of a general feeling of anxiety as to whether England's air defence was adequate. He gave figures comparing the British air forces with those of France, but said he had no intention of even harboring a distant and unnatural idea that war with France was even remotely possible.

British Outnumbered

Sir Samuel's figures disclosed that at the end of the war Great Britain had 3,300 service aeroplanes, while France had 3,600. At the present time Great Britain has only 371 first-line aeroplanes, of which only sixty are available for home defence, while France has 1,260 first-line planes, of which 950 are available for home defence.

The British are an unimaginative people, but such startling figures as these don't require a great deal of imagination, and there is a loud outcry for a stronger air defence. It is an easy matter to picture hundreds of French aeroplanes swarming across the clouded English channel and working ruin and havoc on England, with almost entire impunity.

This condition of affairs is apparently leading to one of two alternatives — either Great Britain must increase her air forces or the European powers must enter into a convention for the limitation of air armaments.

Disparity Too Great

Sir Samuel again is authority for the fact that last year there were 200 semi-military machines built in Great Britain, as against 3,300 in France. France employed 9,250 men in her aircraft factories, while only 2,500 were engaged in British aircraft industries.

"No doubt there is a great difference between the French and British positions," Sir Samuel said. "The French have a long land frontier to defend.

"Even so, the disparity is overwhelming, and the question must arise: If one European power has so big an air force and another so small an air force, which is right?"

A one-power standard air force for Great Britain would mean an increase in present expenditures of more than $25,000,000 this year, and in order to keep pace with the programs of other powers there would have to be an eventual increase of $85,000,000 annually over present estimates.

In the light of these facts, in view of waves of British "air nerves" and in view of the general European situation it is easy to predict that before many months Great Britain will urge an air armament limitation convention.

EX-ADMIRAL NOW CLERK IN PARIS

Admiral Roussine, Resigned To Fate, Says 'Its Life, Why Complain?'

By HARRY R. FLORY
For International News Service

PARIS, April 20.—"I was an admiral. Now I am a clerk. That is life. Why complain?"

In those few words Admiral Roussine discusses and dismisses the story of his sudden change of status in life from chief of staff of the Imperial Russian navy in 1914 to clerk in a Paris lawyer's office today, where he earns 150 francs a month.

Commander of the Russian Naval college! Commander of the naval academy at Petrograd! Officer of the Legion of Honor!

Titles are Forgotten

Those and other titles are forgotten by the naval man as he bends over his work of copying abstracts. Forgotten also by the old admiral is the part he played in the early stages of the world war—services he rendered in helping the French, English and Russians to co-operate.

Not only is the admiral at work, but two other members of the family of four he brought with him out of Russia last summer have also humbled themselves and are doing menial tasks to enable the little family to remain together. The admiral's wife makes up address lists for the Maritime league, and his daughter-in-law does embroidery work. The two grandchildren are attending school.

When the war broke out Admiral Roussine was in France visiting the French Naval school. In 1915, at the invitation of Lord Kitchener and later of Albert Thomas, he went first to London and then came back to Paris, helping to recruit allied military and naval forces.

Later he returned to Russia, and shortly afterward came the revolutions and the regime of the Bolsheviki.

Forced to Leave Russia

"We remained in Petrograd two years under the Bolsheviki," Admiral Roussine related. "At first it was a land of honey. We no longer had to pay rent. We ate in the common dining room. But then——"

The admiral stopped. He explained that he did not want to expose his friends who remain in Russia to the wrath of the Soviet government.

"Because my father, a great surgeon, extracted a bullet from Lenine's flesh we were ordered to leave and given a passport for Switzerland," the admiral said. German officials, however, refused to vise the passport until they had received proof we did not intend to stop in Germany. But we finally arrived in France on the fourth of September, last year."

"It's a hard life, isn't it?" was suggested to the admiral.

"Why?" he queried. "It is life."

And he bent back over his task.

Maids Sell Tea and Kisses on the Side

LONDON, April 20.—"Tea—with or without petting." The sign wasn't out, but it should have been, police said, when they arrested four pretty girls in the financial district charging them with operating a disorderly tearoom. Police charge there were little compartments in the shop where dignified brokers retired with the girls to have their daily dose of tea and cuddling. The scandal caused a stir among the brokers' wives.

RENO'S RIVAL AS DIVORCE CENTER

Husband May Merely Tell Wife He's Through With Her to Get Decree

By HARRY R. FLORY
For International News Service

NICE, France, April 20.—Reno, Nevada, is moving to Nice.

Not all the Americans weary of or disgusted with their marital ties and unable to obtain satisfaction in their home states now flock to the Nevada city for relief, nor to Paris, a divorce center, which for a time threatened to usurp the prestige that once was Reno's.

Now American seekers after divorces are coming to the Riviera in ever increasing number.

American divorces in Nice have increased fourfold in the last six months, according to L. B. Delaney, the only American lawyer on the Riviera. He sees no end to the drift toward Nice, Cannes, Mentone and other Mediterranean pleasure spots of those who want divorces.

They Make It Nice

"If Americans knew how easy it is to get a divorce here they would never go any place else," Delaney declared. Delaney explained to International News Service how pleasant the process may be made for the principals.

Proof of domicile in France is the hardest part of the procedure. To a person of means, however, it is not at all disagreeable to acquire a Riviera villa, ostensibly for permanent habitation.

There he may live, perhaps only at infrequent intervals, and pass a much more pleasant existence than the clients of "Lightnin' Bill" Jones's hostelry, on the Nevada-California border.

Quick and Painless

After that the divorce is an easy matter. The grounds offer no difficulty and if necessary may be arranged in a few minutes. The husband may write a letter to his wife candidly stating he is through with her. That, according to lenient interpretations of the French divorce laws, constitutes "injury grave" and is sufficient cause for a legal separation.

The same scheme is resorted to, where the real grounds for divorce are sensational and serious. The lesser ground of "injury grave" is trumped up for the court hearing, so the real facts are never brought into court.

Unless American newspapermen get the scent and ferret out the case the decree is almost devoid of publicity. The hearing is secret, French newspapers are forbidden by law to print the news, and if the lawyers handling the case give out the details they subject themselves to heavy penalties.

Someone usually talks, and the news leaks out. But the good old institution "injured grave," used as a coverall, keeps the real facts from the American newspaper reading public.

GIRLS FOILED IN HIKE TO COAST

Halted by Brutal Police of Kansas City En Route To California

By KENNETH HARRIS
For International News Service

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 20. —Life for three Chicago maidens, still in their teens, in that metropolis was a humdrum, monotonous affair. The dances, other amusements and even the well-groomed youngsters who had occasionally escorted these sophisticated young misses on frolicsome ventures in the bustling Illinois city ceased to interest them in the slightest degree.

The trio—Myrtle Kruger, Mary Balough and Susie Ruis—were fast friends. They had lived in Chicago all their 18 years. Their venturesome souls sought excitement, and they decided to "chuck it all" and make a transcontinental hike to "Sunny' California.

Started with $45 Fund

Pooling their finances, the girls' fund totaled $45. According to Myrtle—or "Bob," as her companions refer to her—the adventuresses hiked south from Chicago their first three days on the road. Their wardrobe consisted of khaki shirts, tight-fitting knickerbockers, canvas shoes and caps. They slept in haystacks, cowsheds, or deserted buildings.

"Bob" further related that Mary, Susie and she decided that "hiking" was far too slow a mode of travel. On the fourth day of the hike the girls clambered aboard a freight train.

"A refrigerator car was our beauty parlor," Myrtle explained. "We were just a few miles distant from Kansas City when it was decided by my companions that my hair should be bobbed for safety's sake; and they cut my hair."

When the bold and beauteous maidens reached North Kansas City terminal authorities frustrated their plans for "excitement" and a hasty trip to the Pacific Coast. They were placed in the custody of a Y. W. C. A. matron.

Back in Chicago frantic parents were overjoyed when they received telegrams from the matron advising them of their children's whereabouts. Then it was but a short time until the matron received telegrams from Chicago, each of which contained instructions to care for their "wandering" child until someone arrived to see that the trio was returned to "dreary" Chicago.

"Darn!" said "Bob."

"Gee whiz, somebodys always taking the joy out of life!" ruminated Mary.

"Yeh, that's life," said Susie.

Square Heads Should Wear Eccentric Hats

DURHAM, N. H., April 20.—If you're a squarehead, that is, if you have angular features, wear a hat that has a few points and angles, and turns up slightly.

This advice was given by Miss Daisy D. Williams, home demonstration leader in the New Hampshire College Extension Service, who undertakes to tell New Hampshire farmers' wives how to choose hats that are "indivdual and guaranteed to add to the feminine charm."

Natural wool contains a high percentage of oil, called the "yoik" or "suint," which is removed by the action of the soap suds in the scouring process.

Gilt buttons were first manufactured in this country in a room at one end of a grist mill in Waterbury, Conn., in 1802.

15 Children Not Too Many, Says Couple

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., April 20.—"Fifteen s not too many kids," Gus Smith of this city, father of that number of children, declared. Mrs. Smith agrees with her husband.

"Nothing brightens a home more than children, and the more the merrier," Smith says. "We would not take the world for any of them, because they are our joy."

The Smiths hape been married twenty-two years. Ten of the fifteen children came in pairs.

SPORTS CHATTER
By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The Chinese nation has never been famed for its athletes. As a matter of fact little or no forms of modern sports were indulged in by the Chinese nation prior to 1900. Since that time great strides have been made by the Chinese and this advancement is due primarily to the bi-annual Far Western Glympic championships in which the best athletes of China Japan, Korea, the Phillipines and other of the far east nations.

Down in Hawaii where there is a large population of Chinese, the advancement in sports in that section is remarkable and many of the island champions in many forms of sport are Chinese. This advancement is due naturally to the association with Americans, the training in physical lines and sports received in the schools, the adoption of American training methods and the general quick thinking brain of which the Chinaman is noted.

The majority of Chinese in the islands start their sports career with baseball and then go into sports such as track and field, swimming, golf, boxing and wrestling, basketball, etc. None of the Chinese have got into the Major leagues of the mainland, but the nearest approach was the case of Bill Lai who was given a try-out with Pat Moran's Philadelphia Nationals in 1917. He was farmed out to the eastern league and made a good showing in that league. In the islands there are many Chinese playing with the best teams there.

Probably one of the most noted Chinese performers is Charles Chung, known throughout the United States golf world. Chung is the second best golfer in the isl ands and has been runner up for the island title for two years, and there is a possibility of him landing the first honors eventually.

Swimming has found its Chinese stars in the islands. Charles Pung is a swimmer, classed among the champions of the islands and he has it over many of the native Hawaiians in sprint swimming.

In track and field there are innumerable good men and Tim Luke looms up as a sprinter able to take his place on the mark with champions. His best performance was giving the internationally famed sprinter a real race only recently in the sprints. Kong Tai Pong is a field event man and until four weeks ago held the island discus record, till the brilliant performer, Jack Merchant, the national intercollegiate hammer thrower and all round weight man came to the islands and broke the record. Bill Lai Tin made a broad jump record of 22 feet 6½ inches in 1912, and it still holds as the Hawaiian record.

In practically every sport taken up by the Chinese in the islands they have made good. There is only one exception and that is football. In their schools the Chinese boys are as good as the rest, but their frail build fails to give them the necessary physical advantages when they launch out into heavy teams outside the school. There are innumerable Chinese who have made good in both amateur and professional boxing and a notable example in wrestling is D. K. Chank. While a student at the University of California he carried off the Pacific Coast lightweight championship, beating all comers for several years.

What Is So Rare As a Good Third Baseman?

3 RD
JIMMIE COLLINS OF BOSTON WAS THE GREATEST THIRD BASEMAN AND FIRST TO PLAY BACK

More new faces come and go at third base than at any other spot on the diamond, and yet there is a dearth of players who can perform up to the major league standards at the hot corner.

Even in the sand lots third base has never had the appeal that even the field has held for youths to display their talents in. Few cared to play the position. The rest of the team was usually completed and then some left-over was stuck on third. As a consequence, the lack of talent to fill the holes at third base in professional baseball can be held to the youth of the land, if anyone is trying to find an alibi.

The player who can star at third sack must have an iron arm, for he always has a long throw. He must be a fielder, fast on his feet and sure, for when a ball comes his way it travels direct from a full swing off the bat at the man at the plate. It has been hit square on the nose.

The third baseman is called upon to handle fully as many bunts as any players on a team. To do this successfully he must come in fast and make a quick throw.

Some of the old boys were good Fact is, Jimmy Collins of Boston was about the best man at third in all baseball. Arthur Devlin, Tom Burns, Billy Nash, Ed Williamson, White, Latham, Jerry Denny, Steinfeldt, were all great performers at third.

Jimmy Collins, however, first thought out the up-to-date method of covering the hot sack and brought out the possibilities of the position. Before his time third basemen played standing in one spot and close to the bag. Jimmie was the first to move back and depend on fast fielding to overcome the handicap of distance. He found that he could cover more ground by doing so. While more runners would beat out his throws perhaps than when he played close in, his average of put-outs was greater. He was more valuable to the team, but it may have been a little hard on his own fielding average.

Today we find no less than eight teams experimenting with new third basemen. Six of these are in the American league, and three in the rookies look like the goods.

Willlie Kamm heads the list. The White Sox paid $100,000 for him:—press agent price, of course. This recruit looks like the best all-round third sacker that has come into the majors for some time.

Sammy Hale, picture above, is Connie Mack's $75,000 third basehope, and he seems to have the stuff that hopes are realized from. Lutzke of Cleveland has just about won himself a regular job No. 3 at third for Speaker Conroy, McMillen, Ezzel, Mullen and Freiberg are being tried out by Washington, Boston, Browns, Brooklyn and the Cubs respectively.

From all these chances will come, perhaps, one who will stand out as a real find. The others, judging by the past, will not live long after their playing days are over.

United States patent officials in 1846 dimisssed half their small force because it was believed that almost everything had been patented that could possibly be invented; in our times more than 60,000 patents are issued each year.

The WORLD OVER
By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

With the Pacific Coast league finished with their second week of play, it still will be another brace of series before the men get shaken down to anything like normalcy. This is best shown by the high figures which obtain in many of the batting averages which run up as high as the 600's The start of a season always is a tough one for the pitchers, but their turn comes later. Here is a comparison of how the various teams stood last year at the close of the second series with this year's array:

1923	W	L	Pct
Vernon	7	4	636
San Francisco	7	5	583
Sacramento	7	5	583
Salt Lake	6	5	545
Portland	6	6	500
Los Angeles	5	6	455
Seattle	4	7	364
Oakland	4	8	333

1922	W	L	Pct
San Francisco	9	6	643
Los Angeles	8	5	615
Vernon	6	4	600
Sacramento	7	6	538
Oakland	7	7	500
Salt Lake	2	4	333
Portland	3	6	333
Seattle	4	9	308

Extremes of the game featured last week's series when some of the scores ran up into two figures while, on the other hand, Jim Scott pitched the first of the season's no hit no run games for San Francisco against the Oaklanders.

While it is too early to express any decided views or to confirm any of the pre-season prophecies, it would seem as if the prevailing idea that the league was a better balanced one was about to be substantiated. It would seem that there is not the disparity in strength that existed last season which made the race for the pennant not more than a three team race at the most. There ought o be four or five teams in the unning this year if indications are lived up to.

There has been a perfect raft of pitching material tried out by all of the clubs and it is fair to assume that a number of these extra moundsmen will be dropping by the wayside in the course of the next few weeks. It does not take long, as a general rule, to size up a pitcher sufficiently to determine, whether or not, he has the fibre necessary to withstand the wear and tear of a professional baseball season.

Of last year's aces among the coast league batters, Strand has started right in at the jump to lead the way and if he keeps on the gait that he was showing when the 1922 season closed it is more than likely that he will be hailed the chief of the men with the willow. This Salt Laker headed last year's batters with a percentage of 383 and it must be taken into consideration that he made a poor start and had to work himself up the ladder. Apparently he is determined not to be so handicapped this year. He starts in the lead.

Carpentier-McTigue Contest Now Looms

PARIS, April 20.—In response to Tex Rickard's cablegram offering Georges Carpentier and Mike McTigue a match in New York in July, Francois Descamps, manager of Carpentier said he would cable the following reply: "I accept on the basis of 25 per cent of the gate receipts and a guarantee for $75,000."

McTigue defeated Battling Siki, the conqueror of Carpentier, in Dublin, on St. Patrick's day.

"We had not expected to go to America this year because Georges has a full schedule on this side of the ocean," said Descamps. "But if Rickard is anxious enough to meet our conditions, Georges can sail from London after the bout with Joe Beckett. He could continue training on shipboard. With two weeks in New York to get used to the climate he would be in condition to meet McTigue."

Indians Win Eleven Inning Game, 6 to 5

CLEVELAND, April 20.—After eleven innings of furious battling the Indians won yesterday from the Chicago White Sox 6 to 5. Dixie Leverett, who last year tamed the Cleveland tribe on five occasions, was on the mound for the Sox. He gave fourteen hits. The Sox got four in seven innings off Edwards, a left-hander, and one in four from Morton.

Home Run Aid to Win for Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—The Philadelphia Athletics maintained their 1.000 per cent standing in the American league when, aided by a home run by Jimmy Dykes, they trounced Washington by a 4 to 2 score for their second victory in two days.

TAGGING ALL BASES

Cleveland barely managed to pull out a 6 to 5 victory over the Chicago White Sox in 11 innings. The Indians made eight errors behind Edwards and Morton, but smote Leverette's offerings with much familiarity.

The Giants made it four straight over the Braves by taking both ends of Patriots' day doubleheader by a score of 4 to 3, in each instance.

The Dodgers flashed another ninth inning uprising on the Phils, but this time the rally died in mid-air after two runs were scored, the Phils winning, 5 to 3.

Proving that he home runs best who home runs last, the Cubs took another fall out of the Pirates, 10 to 5, circuit clouts by Miller and Kelleher, the latter getting his second in two days, deciding the issue. Russell and Tierney also smashed home runs.

The Tigers made it two in a row over the Browns by hammering Pruett and Thurston. Score 8 to 3. Ken Williams got four hits and Heilman three.

The slugging Cards again outlasted the Reds in an 11 to 8 go as you please, neither Keck nor Couch being able to stop the hitting.

Babe Ruth played a leading role in the second straight victory of the Yankees over the Red Sox, 8 to 2, getting a single and a triple.

READY FOR CROWD

NEW YORK, April 20.—Accommodation for 45,000 persons, the largest crowd that ever saw the Giants play baseball, will be available for the local opening of the National league season with the Boston Braves at the Polo grounds next Thursday. Tickets for reserved seats and boxes have been placed on sale and the demand is brisk.

Social Leader Tells Girls How to Marry

LONDON, April 20.—A girl in love can't judge a man't character and she ought to consult her mother, says Lady Llanggattock, society leader. "The mother is the most unbiased person in the world," she says. "Girls, consult your mothers."

Aurora, Guido Reni's masterpiece, was painted on the ceiling of the summer house of the Rospiglioni Palace in Rome.

Shakespeare Day

The people of Glendale have an unusual treat in store for Monday, April 33, at 2 o'clock, when a fine program will be presented under the auspices of the Shakespearean section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, at the club house, in honor of Shakespeare's birthday anniversary.

Part of the program will consist of scenes from Romeo and Juliet, the introduction of which was written by Mrs. Macy Fullman Garrett, teacher of the section. The scenes were directed by Mrs. H. W. Ralston, dramatic interpreter.

The first scene will be the ballroom scene, the cast including Mesdames Montgomery, Kingsley, Kling, Hunter, Ralston, Halstead Snow, Clotworthy, Van de Water, Jones and Cable.

Old English morris dances in this scene will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Pearl Kellar Brattain, and the balcony serenade will be rendered by Mrs. Mildred Puffer, accompanied by Mrs. Young.

The second part of the program will consist of a one-act comedy, "The Bear," by Anton Tcheckov, presented by guest artists, courtesy of Harl McInroy, director of the Co-Operative Repertory Theatre association. The cast includes Glory Raye, Clarence Ralston and Ben Grett. This comedy was recently given in Hollywood during National Drama Week, by the same artists with great success. Miss Raye has appeared in Europe and America in several successes, such as "Peter Pan" and "Peg o' My Heart," which played for several weeks in England, and in which Miss Raye played the leading role. Clarence Ralston, formerly of Glendale and well known here, having attended the local high school and appeared in local and professional dramatic programs presented here, takes the part of the Bear in this comedy. His portrayal of this character is particularly good and will undoubtedly please his audience.

The public is cordially invited to attend the program, and tickets may be secured from members of the section or at the door.

After the program tea will be served in the tea room.

Give Welcome

A large representation of the membership of the Glendale Presbyterian church was present last evening to welcome the new members who had been received into the church during the past three months. The new members were received by Mrs. T. F. Helffrich, Mrs. Mary Hilliard and Mrs. John Horsch.

After an hour of getting acquainted and social fellowship an informal program was given: Vocal solo, George L. Whitaker; violin solo, Corinne Fittinger. This little lady, only 10 years old, showed herself such an artist that she was called back again and again, much to the delight of her hearers. This was followed by a reading by Miss Marjorie Turner. A vocal solo was then given by Mrs. John D. Cole. A whistling duet by Miss Thelma Moon and Miss Dorothy Garrison came next. The new members were welcomed by H. L. Finlay. Dr. R. M. Ritchey gave a response for the new members, and the pastor, Rev. W. E Edmonds, brought a brief word of greeting.

The church parlors had been decorated with red carnations and greenery. Light refreshments were served.

Mrs. L. A. Hart was chairman of the committee in charge. She was assisted by H. L. Finlay, D. L. Foster, Mrs. J. M. Fife, Mrs. G. W. Fletcher, Mrs. M. P. Harrison and Mrs. R. C Jewell.

Balloon Dance

The "Balloon Dance" to be held tomorrow night at the Knights of Columbus hall, 330 East Lomita avenue, will be the gayest affair of the K. of C. season, say officials of the lodge.

One of the features will be a five-piece jazz orhestra from Hollywood, said to agitate the pedal extremities supremely. But the big hit of the evening will be the Balloon Dance itself, when some 1000 or more of these airy and tinted bulbs will be turned loose on the air.

In some of them will be little slips of paper entitling the lucky possessors to prizes of candy and other equally attractive things. So a lively scramble is expected.

Hugh Bryant, under whose direction this novel dance is being arranged, says that on Saturday night a world record will be established for the number of balloons broken in five minutes.

The proceeds of the dance will go into the clubhouse fund, Mr Bryant states.

Class to Meet

The J. O. C. class of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church will meet tonight in the church parlors for their regular monthly session, it is announced, Mrs. Maynard and Mrs. Peckham as hostesses.

Pacific P.-T. A.

The Pacific Avenue Parent-Teacher association held its regular meeting yesterday at the school house, with the president, Mrs. May Rosenberg, in charge.

The meeting was opened with the flag salute led by Mrs. Rosenberg, and the singing of America. The various committees and officers then made their reports and Mrs. Rosenberg made the announcement relative to the district convention to be held in Los Angeles on April 26 and 27, at the Walker Theatre building.

The following delegates were elected to attend the convention: Mesdames J. Histhorne, Evans, L. E. Hill, Charles Marshall, Ralph Brown, Tatlow, Glasscock, May Rosenberg, Dean Phillips.

A nominating committee was also appointed as follows: Mesdames Fanny Stone, T. Curtiss, Charles Marshall, R. Brown and Sandlin.

Following the business meeting an interesting and instructive talk on the boy and girl problem was given by Dr. John Anderson, and Mr. Tucker of the Community Service organization made an announcement relative to the community party to be given at the Grand View school on Tuesday night, and also in regard to National Play Week.

Later in the afternoon all adjourned to the court, where delicious cake was served which had been donated by Mr. Myers, representing the non-alcoholic flavoring extracts.

The picture was awarded to Mrs. Longley's first grade for having the largest number of mothers and friends in attendance.

Luncheon Hostess

Mrs. H. P. Goodwin of Los Angeles and Mrs. E. F. Tholen entertained on Wednesday, April 18, at a daintily appointed luncheon at the Wilshire Country club, in the celebration of Mrs. W. E. Evans' wedding anniversary, and announcing the engagement of Lucille Tholen to Harry Hall Chester of Chicago. Miss Tholen is well-known in Glendale and is the sister of Dr. E. F. Tholen, a prominent physician formerly of Glendale.

The luncheon table was beautifully decorated with arrangements of spring flowers. Lavender, pink and yellow tulips, daffodils, sweet peas, and Spanish Iris, in low blue baskets added also to the beauty of the decorations. Individual corsage bouquets marked the places for the guests, and in the center of each bouquet was found a tiny card with the names of the engaged couple.

Following the luncheon Mah Jongg and bridge were played. Mrs. E. Leslie Eames was given prize for Mah Jongg and Miss Meyers was awarded prize for the high score at bridge.

The guests present were Miss Lucille Tholee, Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mrs. Neal Hotaling, Mrs. Arthur Jackson, Mrs. Harry Lockwood, Mrs. R. L. McCourt, Mrs. L. G. Sherman, Mrs. H. R. Boyer, Mrs. W. R. Newport, Mrs. Ross Harris, Mrs. Guy Skinner, Mrs. Leslie Eames, Miss Meyers, Miss Ella McDonald and Miss Queenie Bernasconi and the hostesses, Mrs. Goodwin and Mrs. Tholen.

Hostess at Cards

Mrs. Henry Cressman of 590 North Louise street was hostess yesterday afternoon to a bridge and five hundred party at her home for the benefit of the Central Avenue Parent-Teacher association, reports Mrs. Edwin S. Dodds, 421 Gilbert street, who states that fifty women attended, cards being played at twelve tables.

Prizes were won by Miss Annie McIntyre and Mesdames Grenville Jones, Payne, Yale and McComb, the latter of Los Angeles.

Later refreshments of ice cream and cake were served, the new spoons of the P.-T. A. being used.

Mrs. Dodds reports that the sum realized from the affair was $32.

Council Session

A meeting of the advisory council of the Tuesday Afternoon club will be held at the club house on Monday, April 23, at 10:30 o'clock, according to the president, Mrs. Dan Campbell. Every member of the advisory council is urged to be present, as several matters of importance are to be settled, it is stated.

Board to Meet

Mrs. Dan Campbell, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, announces a meeting of the board members of the club for 9 o'clock Monday morning, April 23, at the club house. It is important that all members of the board be present, as important business is to be transacted, it is announced.

At Ranch Home

The Mary Haven Thirkield group of the Missionary Society of First Methodist Episcopal church met yesterday at the beautiful ranch home of Mrs. Charles Starkey.

A delicious chicken dinner was served by the hostess. The table decorations were artistically carried out with old-fashioned garden flowers, which were very appropriate, inasmuch as the gathering was an old-fashioned quilting party.

Following the dinner, the afternoon was spent in sewing, and the eighteen members present declared the afternoon was pleasantly and profitably spent.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"Gimme!" the Goldwyn film, now showing at the Glendale Theatre, is a Rupert Hughes story, directed by Rupert Hughes, from a scenario written by Julian Josephson, who is known for "The Egg Crate Wallop," and many other Charles Ray hits.

The theme of "Gimme!" is the marriage situation, a wife who wants many things and whose husband is unable to supply them, turning a deaf ear on her "Gimme's."

A strong cast makes this picture particularly desirable, the players numbering among them Helene Chadwick, Gaston Glass, H. B. Walthall, Eleanore Boardman and Kate Lester.

Do you know some one with the "Gimme's"?

MARRIAGE HELPS IN STUDY, CLAIM

Student Finds It Easier to Work Way When Wed, So He Declares

By JOHN D. MUELLER
For International News Service

CHICAGO, April 20.—The chap who works his way through college and is really anxious to get something out of his work should get married right at the start. It's the necessary stabilizing influence—takes the women off his mind and gives him time to think.

This is the formula for success in school work prescribed by Merwyn Heald, engineering student at Northwestern University. To back up his claims that matrimony "makes a man," Heald points to a third scholarship record shattered by him. For three seasons he has been supreme, finishing the last semester with an average of 94.2 per cent.

Concentrates Better

To show that when a fellow gets down to business and studies in a home of his own he is able to concentrate as never before, Heald points to a three-months-old babe. The baby, he says, has been broadcasting a program all its own for several weeks, but even that bothers this student not in the least when he becomes engrossed in his studies.

"I'm going to school now as a business," Heald said in discussing his successes. "When I went before it was merely a pastime.

"It's the best thing that ever happened to me in the way of getting a college education—getting married.

"The only place to study is in a home of your own. I went to Nebraska University. I was single then. I was a fraternity man. I soon found that a 'frat' house doesn't settle down until after midnight. Then you can settle down and study.

Become Stabilized

"Now my work is all over and I am in bed at that hour. Get married—and you're stablized. You have a serious attitude toward your work. You're not wasting seven nights a week 'fussing' the girls, as I used to do in the old days."

Heald admits that if there were a lack of co-operation in his household, things might not run so smoothly. But there is no such lack, he says—and pridefully. Never does he have to wear out the carpet singing the baby to sleep when he should be at his school work. That his wife should take care of that end of the work was agreed to long ago, Heald says.

"We co-operate, and everything's great—it's the real stuff!" he exclaimed enthusiastically.

Head of Commission Defends Scharrenberg

SACRAMENTO, April 20.—Denying charges that Paul Scharrenberg, ousted member of the immigration and housing commission, was "using his official position to influence legislation in an attempt to make building more expensive and burdensome upon the people," Simon J. Lubin, president of the housing commission, has issued a statement defending the official ousted by Governor Richardson.

TAKES OWN LIFE

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—Because he was unable to earn enough money to support his two motherless children, Harry Phillips, 35, of Denver, committed suicide today in his room in South Flower street.

Parrot's Human Cries Save Them From Fire

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—"Help! Help! Mamma—oh, Mamma! Papa! Help!"

Firemen hearing these screams from a smoke-filled room in the burning home of Samuel Golder here, fought their way through the blaze to find two green parrots gyrating about in their cages filling the air with shrieks. They were rescued.

Whole Wyoming Town Is Moved by Trucks

CODY, Wyo., April 20.—The town of Wiley, near here, once dear to the cowboy when the West was really wild and woolly, is on the way to Cody, where its once pretentious buildings will be remodeled into dwellings. The entire town will be moved by a transfer company. All the buildings are owned by one man, who decided their revenue would be greater in Cody than in Wiley.

L. H. WILSON BUYS $50,000 PROPERTY

South San Fernando Road Frontage Is Taken by Local Realtor

A new high-water mark for South San Fernando road frontage has been reached in a realty transaction which was reported for the first time today whereby Realtor L. H. Wilson of 1034 South San Fernando road has purchased a frontage of 369 feet immediately west of the end of Palmer avenue for $50,000.

"I am the first person who has ever had the nerve to pay that much money for any real estate around here," remarked Mr. Wilson who is president of the San Fernando Boulevard association. "However' I have been studying values around here for a long time and I know that I am getting good value."

Henry S. Brown, vice-president of the Los Angeles Manufacturing Company, is the former owner of the property. His home, at 1120 South San Fernando road, which he is still occupying is one of the show places of the vicinity. It is surrounded by a small orchard and many beautiful beds of flowers. A long driveway on the north side of the house is flanked with rosebushes on either side and causes the favorable comment of all passers.

Not content with purchasing Mr. Brown's home, Mr. Wilson yesterday sold him property further south, and Mr. Brown is now making plans for the erection of a bungalow home. One of the lots purchased by him is located on the southwest corner of Chislehurst street and Los Feliz road. The other is located on Nottingham drive, not far from Los Feliz road. Upon this will be built the new home.

Plan to Beautify

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Wilson are making plans to move into the present home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Brown as soon as it has been vacated. They expect to go to considerable expense and pains to beautify the premises still further.

The entire tract has a frontage of 369 feet on the east side of San Fernando road and a depth of 326 feet on one side and 468 on the other, owing to the slant taken by San Fernando road.

One of the first things to be done by Mr. Wilson is to dedicate to the city a fifty-foot strip from east to west directly through the middle of the property. This will open Palmer avenue through to San Fernando road. It now extends as far east as Adams street. Title papers to the portion of the street to be donated by Mr. Wilson are now being prepared and the gift will be made to the city council in a very few days.

Surveys have been made already and in the near future this property is to be subdivided and placed on the market in the form of sixteen building lots. Six of these, which will have a 55-foot frontage and a depth averaging 150 feet, will be on San Fernando road. The other ten, five on each side, will face Palmer avenue. These will have a frontage of 50 feet and a depth of 140 feet.

Realtor L. H. Wilson has no doubt whatever as to the salability of this property, and, considering its location, and the wonderful fertility of its soil, feels that it is as good as sold already

DOPE SMUGGLING PLOT IS FEARED

Prison Warden Acts to Keep Low Flying Planes Away From Jail

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., April 20.—The frequency with which airplanes have been flying over the state penitentiary here recently at low altitudes caused Warden James A. Johnston to suspect a plot to smuggle in drugs and resulted in drastic steps being taken.

Army planes hereafter will not approach closer than 2000 feet of he prison. This will enable special guards to spot civilian planes, and if other measures fail, an anti-aircraft gun may be mounted at the prison.

LONDON RAIMENT CALLS FOR CASH

Experts Figure British Beau Must Spend at Least $2000 Per Year

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service

LONDON, April 20. — Clothes may not make the man, but in London they very easily "break" him.

Those dashing young chappies who stroll about Piccadily Circus, lounge in the fashionable London hotels and clubs and grace the theatre, the cabaret or the dinner dansant at night, need money —a powerful lot of it—to achieve and maintain the sartorial elegance for which they are noted. They are gorgeously arrayed but the amounts they spend for their habiliments would, if lumped together, come precious close to liquidating the British national debt.

Take the word of an expert for it, the man who wishes to be considered really smart and up-to-date in his clothes spends $2,000 to $2,500 a year.

The expert in question is Dennis Bradley, member of an old Bond street firm whose clientele is composed chiefly of the blithe young spirits whose chief aim in life, apparently, is to drape themselves in raiment that would make a contemporary Solomon look as if he had been turned out of a ragbag. Here is a list of what Bradley says the really snappy dresser in London requires and what it costs him to acquire it:

Modest Wardrobe

Six lounge suits at $70 each.
Dress suit, $100.
Dinner suit, $80.
Six white waistcoats at $12.50 each.
Four overcoats at $60 each.
Riding suit, $80.
Golf suit, $60.
Morning suit, $80.
Two extra pairs of trousers, $45 each.
Two silk hats, $15 each.
Three felt or derby hats, $10 each.
Boots and shoes, $200.
Two dozen day shirts, $15 each.
Two dozen evening shirts at $10 each.
Silk collars, $1.25 each.
Silk neckties, $2.50 each.
Silk vests and pants, $35.
Six suits silk pajamas, $40 each.
Four dozen pairs of gloves, $3.50 each.
Two dozen pairs silk socks, $5 each.
Four pairs ordinary socks, $1.50 each.

Economy Possible

Of course, the young man about town who sincerely desired to economize might get along with perhaps only three suits of silk pajamas, providing he has a fast-working laundry, or he might cut out wearing ordinary socks and thereby save at least $6 per year. He might even get along on three dozen pairs of gloves and thereby lop more than $40 off his annual haberdasher's bill. But he would be taking a big chance that some other "Johnny" would outstrip him in sartorial reputation and social prestige. The risk would almost be too great to justify the economy.

Bradley injects a note of tragedy by pointing out that even so lavish an expenditure is not always a warranty that the spender will be well dressed. "It must of course, be remembered," says Bradley, "that there are some men who will never look really smart if they spend $20,000 a year."

Either way, it's a tough life for the would-be Beau Brummel — eh, what?

LEGION TO MEET

The local post of the American Legion will hold a brief business meeting commencing at 7:45 o'clock tonight in its hall at 610 East Broadway. Commander Chalmer Day stated that it would adjourn early enough for all Legionnaires who did not witness last night's performance of "The Fun Review of 1923" at the Tuesday Afternoon Clubhouse, to attend tonight's show.

Three tons of German brown coal would be required to give the same amount of heat as one ton of good American anthracite.

"Hello, Smith"

(Brooks E. Miller speaking)

"Have you bought your Bemco Yet?"

(Smith)—"What's Bemco?"

(Miller)—"Bemco is a coined word taken from my initials, B. E. M., with company added; the full name of the company is

Bemco Oil Syndicate No. 1

and the trustees are as follows: A. P. Hoffman, Director Security Trust & Savings Bank, Long Beach; M. S. Capell, Retired Capitalist, Los Angeles; R. Heichert, Secretary, Los Angeles; Oliver O. Clark, Attorney, Glendale; Brooks E. Miller, Oil Well Financier, Glendale."

(Smith)—"What is Bemco doing?"

(Miller)—"Bemco No. 1 is an oil well being drilled on Signal Hill, within 400 feet of three producing oil wells; 15½-inch casing was set last Tuesday at 655 feet and our drill is working now at 750 feet, making 'hole' rapidly."

(Smith)—"What is the capitalization of Bemco?"

(Miller)—"Twelve hundred and fifty units of $100 each."

(Smith)—"That sounds pretty low."

(Miller)—"It is low, in fact it is the lowest I know of and is a real chance for the investor to make big money."

(Smith)—"How often do they pay dividends?"

(Miller)—"Every 30 days, by one of the leading banks of Long Beach."

(Smith)—"That's a pretty good board of trustees you have."

(Miller)—"Do you know any of them?"

(Smith)—"Yes, two."

(Miller)—"Call them up and ask them about this proposition."

(Smith)—"No, I am satisfied. I am sure you wouldn't print their names unless they were really trustees."

(Miller)—"How many units do you want?"

(Smith)—"Put me down for 10."

(Miller)—"Thanks; come in and see me or my representative."

(Smith)—"I sure will."
